Investment Objective & Risk

The portfolio aims to produce its return through a combination of income and capital growth but with a bias towards the latter. It is designed to be more defensive when markets fall but also able to capture a sizable part of any gains in rising markets. It will be invested in funds that incorporate into their decision making the impact companies have on the environment and a broad range of social issues, with the overarching intention of investing to bring positive change. It is a complex subject and this model offers a pragmatic approach to investing responsibly.

Your St. James's Place Partner can provide you with a copy of 'Understanding the balance between risk and reward', which explains investment risk and our risk ratings in more detail.

Performance data source: FE fundinfo/St. James's Place. Data as at 31 May 2023. All figures are percentage growth on a bid to bid basis for accumulation units, income reinvested and in fund currency. Please be aware that past performance is not indicative of future performance. Portfolios are not rebalanced automatically with regard to a central model and will have different securities and fund allocations such is their bespoke nature, often also influenced by capital gains tax. Therefore, individual investment experience will vary to that shown.

ARC Private Client Indices are provided by Asset Risk Consultants (ARC) and are a set of risk-based indices designed to be used in assessing the performance of any diversified client portfolio.
They are based on actual client portfolio data provided by over 140 investment firms, including Rowan Dartington, and are net of all ongoing charges. Please note, all comparisons are an approximation and should be used as a guide only due to differences between investment propositions and philosophies from subscriber firms.

[1] The Ongoing Charges Figure (OCF), Transaction and Incidental costs are those relating to investments made and held on the Rowan Dartington platform. If you are investing via an alternative third-party platform, the OCF and other costs may be different and will depend on the types of units (retail or institutional, for example) that can be accessed via that third party platform. Rowan Dartington cannot be held responsible for any changes in the published OCF or other costs when using a third party platform.

[2] Portfolio yield gives an indication of the current level of income which is expected to be distributed over the coming 12 months. This is based on the current holdings within the portfolio, and after the deduction of the investment funds' annual management charges – it is gross of basic rate tax. It excludes the annual Rowan Dartington management charge.

[3] Our Annual Management Charge (AMC) is the maximum management charge that will be applied to this portfolio. If you are unsure as to the charge applicable in your own circumstances, please contact your portfolio manager.

Monthly Commentary as at 30 April 2023

Global equity markets were broadly flat in sterling terms during April, with strength in the pound dampening what was a generally positive month. Under the surface, there was a notable divergence between developed and emerging markets, with Chinese equities showing particular weakness as investors began to question the strength of the domestic recovery while fears rose over potential military action against Taiwan. The UK and Europe led the way, while strong returns in Japan were reversed by further weakness in the Yen. In the bond markets, volatility started to die down as investors turned their attention away from troubles in the banking sector and back to the issues of inflation, growth, and tight labour markets. The inflation picture is increasingly mixed; in the US, the headline number has come down markedly, however the labour market is still red hot, while in the UK the rate has barely budged from its multi-decade high.

General Risks

The past performance is not a reliable guide to future performance. The value of shares and the income from them can fall as well as rise and investors may get back less than they originally invested. The tax treatment of investments depends on each individual's circumstances and is subject to changes in tax legislation. The sterling value of overseas investments, and the income from them, is subject to currency fluctuations. All estimates and prospective figures quoted in this publication are forecast and are not guaranteed.

Specific Risks

Equity: This portfolio invests in equities. The value of equities can rise and fall quite sharply at times. Returns are not guaranteed and, whilst equities have tended to outperform over the long term, there have been periods when equities have fallen significantly in value over the short term.
Bond: This portfolio holds bonds issued by companies and governments. There is a chance that some of the companies or governments that issued these bonds will fail to make interest or capital payments, or other investors may believe the security of the government or company has declined, both of which would reduce the value of your investments. The values of bonds are also sensitive to changes in interest rates; for example, an increase in interest rates will usually cause a fall in the value of an investment in bonds.
Emerging Markets: This portfolio holds investments in less developed economies and invests in less mature stock markets, so its value may fluctuate more than a portfolio which invests in developed countries.
Property: This portfolio invests in property (i.e. land and buildings). Property can be difficult to sell in a short period, so you may not be able to sell or switch out of the investment when you want to due to the delay in acting upon the instruction. The value of property can fall as well as rise, particularly if there are more people trying to sell rather than buy, and is generally a matter of a valuers opinion until the property is sold.
