September 2023

Market Commentary

In September, global equities trended down in most regions, mainly driven by the US Fed signalling no immediate end in the current high level of US rates at its August meeting. The Australian share market was no exception, declining by 2.9% despite the RBA keeping interest rates unchanged. Notable declines were seen in Information Technology, Health Care, and Telecommunications stocks. Government bond yields continued their upward path worldwide following the re-setting of higher US interest rate expectations. The Australian 10-year yield increased by 46 basis points to 4.5%. Similarly, the US 10-year government bond rose by 46 basis points to 4.6%, the highest level since 2007. The move higher in US yields resulted in a stronger USD globally with the Australian dollar (AUD) falling slightly (just above 64 US cents) against the US dollar (USD). Commodities were mixed: oil prices were strong, up more than 9.8% to above US$95/barrel, following supply cuts announced by OPEC.

Economic Outlook

In Australia, persistent growth in housing prices, a tight labour market, and positive wage pressures have helped support an increase in consumer spending. Notably, inflation reportedly moved higher to 5.2% p.a in August, up from a 4.9% p.a. in July. While Core CPI, excluding food and energy, showed further softening to 4.5% p.a. in September, down from 5.3% p.a. in August, reaching its lowest level since August 2022. As a result, the Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) left interest rates steady at 4.1%, noting the need to consider the implications of further lagged effects from previous increases in interest rates on household spending and inflation. Recent data releases show a softening trend in growth across developed economies. Inflation in the US increased slightly to 3.7% p.a. in August, from 3.2% p.a. in July. Meanwhile, core inflation, while still elevated, fell to 4.3% p.a. in August, down from 4.7% in July. Labour market indicators remained resilient in September, with the unemployment rate holding steady at 3.8%, and average hourly earnings increasing by 4.2% p.a. Economic activity in other regions has slowed down. In Europe inflation continued to moderate, subsiding to 5.2%, with core inflation falling to 5.3% annually in August.
