

Lloyds Banking Group

Brand guidelines

February 2023, Version 4

Contents

01

Introducing our brand

- 4 Our family of brands
- 5 Our brand story
- 7 Visual and verbal identity
- 8 Championing modern Britain
- 9 Core brand assets

02

We sound like this

- 11 Tone of voice principles
- 12 Using our tone of voice
- 13 Unpacking our principles
- 16 Our voice in action

03

We look like this

- 22 Logo
- 28 Colour
- 39 Typeface
- 47 Photography
- 59 Supergraphics
- 66 Icons
- 71 Infographics

04

Best practice examples

- 77 Investors, shareholders and analysts
- 79 Government, media, journalists and opinion formers
- 83 Our people
- 90 Event specific
- 91 Social specific

05

Contact us

- 93 Any questions

Section 01

Introducing our brand

Our family of brands

The role of the Lloyds Banking Group brand is to build and maintain reputation with our non-customer facing audiences and become employer of choice for our people.

The group operates a unique multi-brand portfolio featuring some of the UK's best known financial services brands. Each has its own unique and distinct role to play.

Without our brands, Lloyds Banking Group would not exist. It is our customer facing brands that make us who we are and allow us to help Britain prosper by meeting the needs of our customers and clients every day.

Some important rules when using the Lloyds Banking Group brand:

- Lloyds Banking Group should always be referred to in full externally and not shortened to Lloyds or LBG
- The Lloyds Banking Group and Lloyds Bank brands are separate. They have their own distinct identities and should not be mixed
- 'Helping Britain prosper' is Lloyds Banking Group's purpose and a communications platform for the corporate brand only. While there is an implied role for customer brands, the line is never overtly used by them

Our brand story

Our Group strategy defines our story and how we want to be seen

Our purpose	Helping Britain Prosper
Our mission	We help Britain prosper by creating a more sustainable and inclusive future for people and businesses, shaping finance as a force for good.
Our vision	To become the UK’s customer focussed digital leader and integrated financial services provider, capitalising on new opportunities at scale.
Our strategy	Supporting the transition to a low carbon economy and building an inclusive society. Grow Focus Change
Our values	• Bold • Inclusive • Trusted • People-first • Sustainable

Our corporate brand is the embodiment and carrier of this strategy

Brand role

Build and maintain reputation with non-customer facing audiences and become employer of choice for our people

Brand purpose

Helping Britain Prosper

Brand audiences

- Our people (current and existing)
- Non-customer facing audiences (investors / shareholders, MPs, government, media and journalists, opinion formers and regulators)

Brand personality

- Bold, progressive and modern
- Reassuring and stable
- Impactful and confident
- Sustainable
- Inclusive
- Human and professional

Our brand is bold and proud

The way that we look and sound is driven by our strategy.

We claim our place as an influential financial leader with bold statements and strong images that champion modern Britain.

We demonstrate the role we play in helping the nation prosper, lending credibility to the things we've accomplished and the vision we have for the future.

As a brand, we 'go through the green'. This means we establish green as our ownable colour from the outset. We then use our expanded colour palette to celebrate our portfolio of brands and reflect the key role they play in delivering our purpose.

By embracing this confident approach, we give Lloyds Banking Group an identity it can own, with a distinct voice, attitude and point of view.

Championing modern Britain

Brands, at their best, have enormous power to influence and shape culture. But with this power comes significant responsibility. A responsibility to ensure that we are using our brands as a force for good.

Which is why we believe that it is no longer sufficient for Lloyds Banking Group to merely 'represent' modern Britain; rather it needs to go further and actually 'champion' the modern, inclusive and diverse Britain we believe in, and want to see.

We've captured our eight guiding principles to make representation in our communications more inclusive and progressive.

For more information and detail, read the Championing modern Britain report here.

Our eight guiding principles

1. Portray me positively

Present all people in a way they'd like to be seen, helping to challenge and defy restrictive stereotypes.

2. Don't put me in a box

Consider all the layers of identity of the people you portray.

3. Authenticity is in the detail

Focus on the nuanced details for true-to-life representations – create good connections, not bad reactions.

4. Word association counts

Make sure the language you use alongside an image doesn't reinforce an unhelpful trope.

5. Where am I in all of this?

Try to represent all ethnicities – Asian and mixed heritage people are often underrepresented.

6. Level the playing field

Show that people from all ethnicities can have equal social status and are deserving of prominence.

7. Sensitively challenge bias

You can be progressive in subtle ways, but remember you risk alienating people with long-established beliefs.

8. Check in with an expert

Enlist the support of an external cultural advisor, or establish your own diversity panel in-house.

Overview of core brand assets

Logo

Colour palette

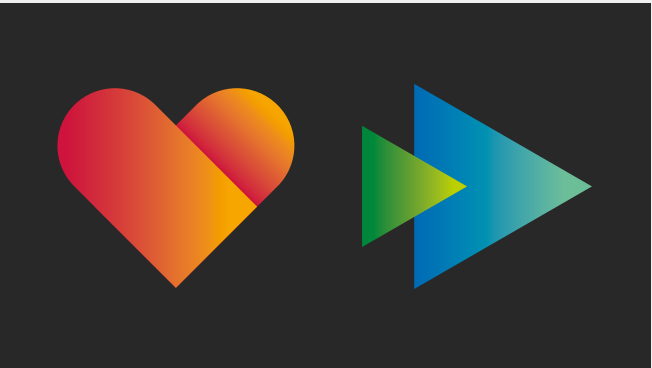

Typeface and tone of voice

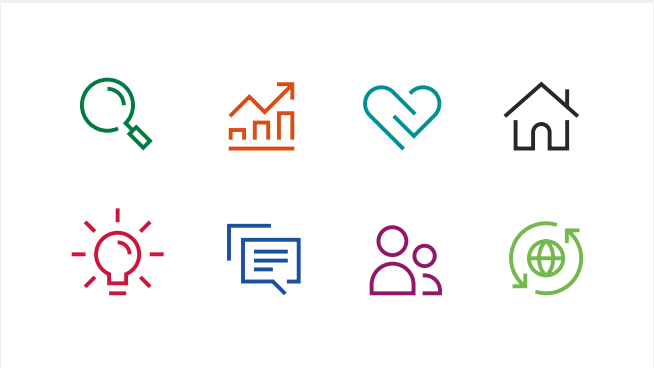

Photography

Supergraphics

Icons

Section 02

We sound like this

Tone of voice principles

Helping Britain Prosper

We're a guiding voice for the nation. Building a more inclusive, sustainable future for all, shaping finance as a force for good.

We speak to a wide-ranging audience – from our own people and shareholders to government, journalists and regulators.

Our voice needs to be versatile enough to meet their different needs while still delivering a consistent experience and ladder back up to our shared mission.

Note

All communications across our brand portfolio should adhere to the Customer Communications Handbook found here.

Communications play a crucial role in helping our audiences make effective, informed decisions and achieve good outcomes.

Our voice is...

Purposeful

We're shaping finance as a force for good. So we show our ambition through a positive, stable outlook that drives progress.

Inclusive

We bring through warmth, consideration and understanding in everything we say to show how we're creating an inclusive and sustainable future for everyone.

Bold

We reflect the impact we make with dynamism and energy, creating a feeling of confidence in what we do and say.

Using our Tone of Voice

Lead with Purposeful and Inclusive

These tones help us tell different stories with equal parts action and humanity. They reflect our ambition and understanding to position ourselves as a guiding voice for progress.

Support with Bold

Our Bold tone is best expressed through an impactful headline or a punchy statement that shows a point of view. We use it thoughtfully to add confidence to our other tones.

Lead with...

Purposeful

To show our ambition, action and point of view.

Inclusive

To reflect understanding, care and humanity.

Support with...

Bold

To deliver energy, modernity and impact.

Unpacking our principles

We're Purposeful

We're shaping finance as a force for good.
So we show our ambition through a positive, stable outlook that drives progress.

How to get it right

- ▶ Show stability with definitive language and stories that reflect our purpose
- ▶ Showcase the positive in every message, even if it's a difficult one, showing the opportunities we can unlock
- ▶ Be outcome-focused by always pairing our actions with the benefits they deliver or facts/findings with the real human impact
- ▶ Support statements with insight and proof points. Always push for the most relevant statistics to make our purpose a reality

In action

Turning uncertainty into possibility

We're working to make the market net zero by only investing in initiatives aligned to this goal

We helped 80,000 people become first-time buyers last year. This year, we're going to help even more

Shape your impact at Lloyds Banking Group

We're Inclusive

We bring through warmth, consideration and understanding in everything we say to show how we're creating an inclusive and sustainable future for everyone.

How to get it right

- ▶ Bring through warmth with conversational turns of phrase that reflect how we would speak face to face
- ▶ Use relatable and empathetic statements to build a connection with our audience and show we're a trusted presence here to help Britain prosper
- ▶ Where appropriate, use 'we' rather than 'Lloyds Banking Group' or 'The Group', especially when talking about what we do and why we do it to bring through our humanity
- ▶ Always choose inclusive and accessible language that represents Modern Britain – use people-focused terminology, avoid gender-normative terms, and use slang and idioms sparingly

In action

Helping you bring your best self to work

We know that helping children and young people understand how to manage money is a big concern for parents and guardians

For many people across the UK, finding a safe and affordable home is a genuine struggle. That's why we're continuously investing in accessible housing initiatives

When it comes to feeling confident at work, we all need a little help getting in the right mindset sometimes

Unpacking our principles

We're Bold

We look forward with dynamism and energy, creating a feeling of confidence, impact and opportunity in what we do and say.

How to get it right

- ▶ Verb-led headlines and statements create a sense of action and momentum
- ▶ Use punchy, concise statements that show a clear point of view
- ▶ Add rhythm and pace to your copy by varying sentence length and delivering benefits or actions as a trio, e.g. We're helping Britain feel safe, secure and resilient
- ▶ Use future-facing language to create a sense of progress and hope

In action

Grow with purpose

Impact starts with you

Everyone should have a place to call home

Behind the businesses that help Britain prosper

With 26 million customers across the UK, we understand the needs of the nation

Our voice in action

Example
Annual report extract

Audience needs
Shareholders and government looking for insight, reassurance and tangible results.

Dial up
Purposeful and Bold to bring through ambition stability and energy.

- 1. Bold
An active, verb-led headline showcases the most compelling information.

2. Inclusive and Bold
Using 'we' humanises the Group, while delivering a list of three benefits creates pace and reflects the action we're taking.
- 3. Bold and Purposeful
We deliver a strong and empathetic point of view and support our statement with tangible real-life action.

4. Purposeful
Touches of empathetic language and a positive outlook show how we're living our purpose.

Example: Annual report extract

1. →

Driving financial education and support across the Nation

£110m donated to our four charitable Foundations
since 2018.

We continue to invest in helping children and young adults across the UK to better understand the value of money, manage their day-to-day finances and build good habits to achieve financial independence.

We do this face-to-face with colleague volunteers in classrooms, and also offer a range of resources that are available for download via our academy sites.

And because we believe that change happens when communities are empowered, we're also donating an extra £2million to our four Foundations which cover England and Wales, Scotland, Northern Ireland and the Channel Islands.

They partner with hundreds of small and local charities in their area to make sure our expertise and resources are reaching the people who need it most. The Foundations provide funding and other forms of support to help people overcome complex social issues such as mental ill health, domestic abuse, addiction and homelessness.

← 2.

← 3.

← 4.

Our voice in action

Example
Careers extract from corporate website

Audience needs
Prospective colleagues looking for information and insight about whether Lloyds Banking Group is for them.

Dial up
Purposeful and Inclusive to show we're an organisation that embraces progress and cares.

- 1. Bold and Purposeful
An active, verb-led headline that showcases our ambition.
- 3. Inclusive
Empathetic language shows our humanity.
- 2. Inclusive and Purposeful
Empathetic language creates a sense of understanding and relatability, while we're clear about the benefits and positive outcomes.

Example: Careers extract from corporate website

1. →

2. →

3. →

Championing flexible working

We know that flexible working is proven to help people have a more rewarding career and a healthy lifestyle balance. That's why we support our colleagues in choosing how they want to and need to work so they can be their best self in the office, achieve their career goals and have a balanced and fulfilling life. It helps us as an organisation too. It means we can manage and adapt to the ever-changing needs of our business and the fast-paced world around us.

We work with our colleagues to find the right working situation for them and the demands of their role. These include:

Part-time: Working less than the standard full-time hours, by working fewer days or fewer hours within the day.

Compressed hours: Full-time hours but over fewer days, meaning working longer on each of the agreed working days.

Job-share: Two colleagues covering the work and responsibilities of one role, allowing different perspectives and working patterns.

Home working: Working from home either occasionally or more regularly (like we have seen from some of our colleagues during the pandemic) can be valuable to the business and colleagues.

Our voice in action

Example Interchange article extract

Audience needs

Our people looking for insight and knowledge into our customers.

Dial up

Purposeful to tell stories through the lens of our purpose, supported by insight and action.

1. Bold and Purposeful

An active, verb-led headline that showcases our ambition.

2. Inclusive and Purposeful

Empathetic language and a positive message shows our commitment.

3. Purposeful

Using insight to support positive statements.

4. Bold and Purposeful

Punchy concise statements and empathetic language show a strong point of view.

5. Inclusive

Empathetic and relatable statements bring tangible, human context.

6. Purposeful

We support insight with the tangible human impact.

Example: Interchange article extract

1. →

2. →

Understanding how the UK's digital capability affects financial prosperity

Over the last seven years, we've worked to better understand the financial and digital capability of the consumers in the UK. Through extensive research, we've looked at how customers use the Internet and also what their capability is when they're using it.

27%

27% of the population that have access to the Internet, but don't really understand how to use it.

600+

Somebody with very high digital skills can save over £600 more than someone with very low digital skills.

The pandemic has had a massive impact on the number of people who use the Internet. Our research shows that 99% of consumers across the UK, over the last three months, have actually used the Internet. This is amazing and would never have happened pre-pandemic. But the question for us is about the 1% that aren't. Because that 1% represents half a million people.

Our research is also showing us that 27% of the population that have access to the Internet, don't really understand how to use it. We probably all know people who can use Facebook every now and again, but they'd struggle to book a doctor's appointment or buy something online. Sometimes it's capability, sometimes its affordability. The latter for us is really concerning, especially during a cost of living crisis.

We know that not being online creates serious disadvantages. People with low digital skills are more likely to be scammed. And research shows that people who have been scammed are more likely to not use the Internet again, leaving them cut off from information, resources and services that support financial independence, like online banking.

We know through our research that someone with the same job as somebody else but higher digital skills will actually see an income rise of over £400 a month. We also know that somebody with very high digital skills can actually save over £600 (a year) more than someone with very low digital skills. From a financial point of view, it's never been more important to be online.

← 3.

← 4.

← 5.

← 6.

Our voice in action

Example
Sustainability extract from corporate website

Audience needs
Investors, shareholders, government, press looking to know more about the action we're taking.

Dial up
Purposeful and Bold to tell stories through the lens of our purpose with touches of dynamism and energy to show our progress.

- 1. Bold and Purposeful
An active, verb-led subhead sets the intention of the message to follow.

2. Purposeful
Action and outcome-focused language shows how we're living our purpose.
- 3. Purposeful and Inclusive
Using insight to support action and show we understand the challenges.

4. Bold and Purposeful
A punchy statement backed up with the tangible action we're going to take.

Example: Interchange article extract

The Housebuilding Sustainability Finance Framework

To complement the development of the newly created standards for UK housebuilders, we've launched our Sustainability Finance Framework. It sets out how the Group will support housebuilders to access finance to build more sustainable homes.

“
We're committed to expanding the availability and affordability of safe, quality and sustainable housing.
”

Putting our purpose into action

As one of the largest funders of the UK housebuilding sector, we're committed to expanding the availability and affordability of safe, quality and sustainable housing – whether that's supporting our customers, housebuilders, developers or housing association clients. It's central to our purpose – shaping finance as a force for good to help Britain prosper.

Built environments account for around 40% of CO₂ emissions in the UK. Which means that decarbonising homes, new and existing is essential to delivering the UK's net zero target. Housebuilders of all sizes will increasingly have to respond and adapt to evolving legislation aimed at reducing carbon emissions. And homeowners are increasingly expecting higher sustainability standards from the homes they live in.

We have an important role to play. That's why we're committed to developing the standards for more sustainable homes and providing finance to help housebuilders meet these standards.

← 1.

← 2.

← 3.

← 4.

Our voice in action

Example
Health & Wellbeing – colleague support

Audience needs
Our people who need to feel empowered and supported.

Dial up
Inclusive and Purposeful to show how we take action and guide our colleagues with care.

- 1. Purposeful and Bold
We set out the topic clearly and follow with a punchy and active call to action.

2. Inclusive
Empathetic and relatable language helps to build a connection with our audience.

3. Purposeful
We support our message with clear insight and proof points.
- 4. Bold
Active and punchy subheads deliver energy and inspiration.

5. Inclusive and Purposeful
We use understanding language to offer tangible guidance that's supported by benefits.

6. Purposeful
We offer a clear outcome and action to take with the right support.

Example: Health & Wellbeing – colleague support

1. →

2. →

3. →

4. →

6. →

Self-confidence

Setting yourself up for success

When we think about self-confidence, we tend to feel we either have it or we don't. But that's not the full story. Think about how confident you feel before a tricky meeting compared with how you feel when socialising with your friends. How confident we feel can differ depending on the circumstances.

Dr Cathie Woodward says "It's wrong to assume that we can't improve our self-confidence. We often treat our mental states like the weather – something we can't affect. In fact we can, but it takes some effort".

Prepare your mindset

Confidence is a mindset so it's all about setting yourself up for success. Before an important meeting or presentation, try listening to some uplifting music, going for a walk or repeating an inspiring mantra. Avoid any negative influences around you that may sap your confidence.

Clear fifteen minutes before the event and practise one or two of the above suggestions. Then it's about holding on to that confidence and keeping your focus, so avoid speaking to people, answering the phone or checking your emails.

Creating a supportive environment

Talking about health & wellbeing with your team should be part of everyday conversation. If you're a line manager, taking early steps to talk about how you can support your team is proven to help wellness at work. The Health, Wellbeing and Attendance policy site has plenty of resources and guidance to get you started with those important wellbeing conversations.

← 5.

Section 03

We look
like this

A large, dark silhouette of a horse in motion, possibly running or galloping, serves as the background for the slide. The horse is facing left, with its head turned slightly towards the viewer. Its mane and tail are flowing, suggesting movement. The silhouette is set against a dark gray background.

Logo

Strength and stature

Logo suite

Primary horizontal logo

This is the preferred logo to lead with across all of our touchpoints.

The positive logo is for use on a dark colour or dark area of an image and the negative logo is for use on white or a light area of an image.

Secondary stacked logo

This logo should only be used in exceptional circumstances where there isn't room for the horizontal version, e.g. narrow formats where the width is restricted.

Digital shorthand logo

Only use the shorthand logos on social channels.

Note

Always use the master logo artworks provided and never try to re-create or change them in any way. Artworks are available on the AEM for CCO colleagues and agencies. For colleagues outside of CCO contact: brand@lloydsbanking.com

Primary horizontal logo

Positive

Negative

Digital shorthand logo (exceptional use only)

Holding square

Secondary stacked logo (exceptional use only)

Positive

Negative

Holding circle

Clear space and minimum sizes

Clear space

To make sure there's good legibility and standout, it's important to retain sufficient clear space around our logo. No text or graphics should enter this clear space.

The recommended minimum clear space is defined by the height of the logotype ('X').

Minimum sizes

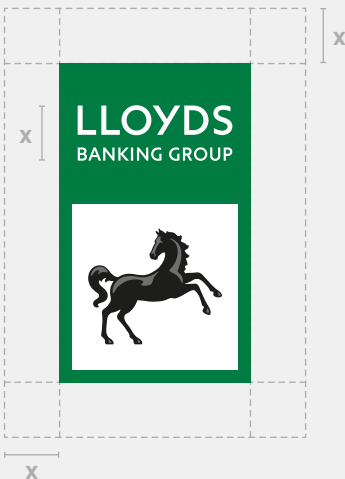

Shown opposite are also the minimum logo sizes for both print and digital. Our logos should not be used below these sizes.

Clear space

Primary horizontal logo

Secondary stacked logo

Minimum sizes

Positive

Print: 30 x 14.5mm
Digital: 210 x 101px

Print: 17 x 28.4mm
Digital: 115 x 192px

Negative

Print: 31 x 15.5mm
Digital: 217 x 108px

Print: 18 x 29.2mm
Digital: 122 x 198px

Using the primary horizontal logo

Our primary logo can be positioned in any corner of your format, as shown opposite.

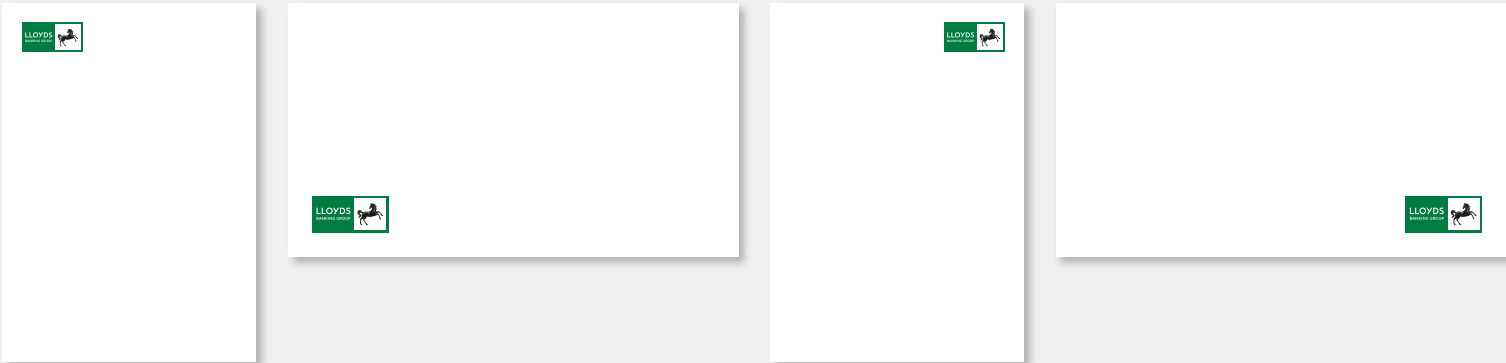

Recommended print sizes

The recommended print sizes opposite are a guide for both landscape and portrait formats.

For larger formats not covered, use the closest 'A size' as a starting point and scale accordingly.

Where possible logo sizes should be consistent in both size and position across similar formats and designs.

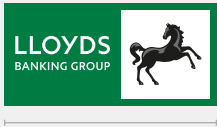

Positioning examples

Recommended print sizes

A3: 70mm

A4: 50mm

A5: 40mm

Co-branding

It's important that our logo is used with care and consideration, especially when used alongside other brands.

The overview opposite demonstrates the three possible co-branding hierarchies:

Lloyds Banking Group brand dominant
Introducing a third party or business partner.

Partner brand dominant
Lloyds Banking Group partnering in support.

Equal partnership
This equal weighting logo lock-up is reserved for the Group's charity, or agreed group wide partnerships, such as the Woodland Trust.

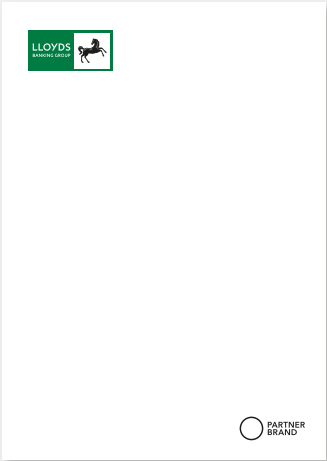

The examples shown are only for illustrative purposes. Logo placement and sizing will vary depending on both the type of communication and the partner brand.

Note
Before creating a new logo lock-up, make sure you ask the brand team for approval.

When supplying logos to third parties, you need to follow brand governance principles. Full details can be found here.

External users should contact:
brand@lloydsbanking.com

Lloyds Banking Group brand dominant

Principles

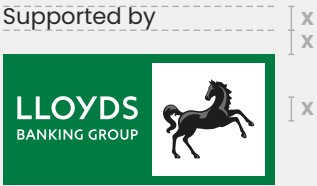

- Leads with the Lloyds Banking Group primary logo
- The partner brand logo is used as an endorsement or sign-off with a relevant descriptor
- Uses the Lloyds Banking Group visual identity

Partner brand dominant

Principles

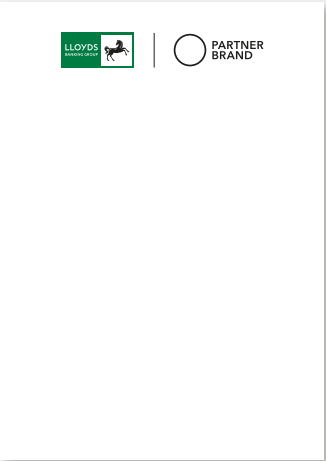

- Leads with the partner brand logo
- The Lloyds Banking Group primary logo is used as an endorsement or sign-off with a relevant descriptor
- Uses the partner brand visual identity

Creating a descriptor

- The descriptor should sit above the logo and outside of the clear space zone
- The descriptor is typeset in Poppins Regular, sentence case
- The size of the descriptor (including ascenders and descenders) should match the height of the letter 'L' from the logotype
- The distance between the descriptor and the logo should also match the height of the letter 'L' from the logotype

Equal partnership

Principles

- The Lloyds Banking Group primary logo and the partner logo have an equal weighting
- Depending on the nature of the partnership, you can use either the Lloyds Banking Group visual identity, the partner visual identity or a third party visual identity

Business identifiers

It's important that we signify that we are one Group. Therefore, we avoid creating sub-brands and logos for individual areas and teams.

Instead, if needed, we use our core brand assets to create simple identifiers, as shown opposite.

Identifiers for the seven business units, alongside editable PowerPoint versions that can be used to create signposts for your individual teams, can be found here.

Overview of best practice business identifiers

Example positive and negative variants

Consumer Relationships

Consumer Relationships

CR Consumer Relationships

CR
Consumer Relationships

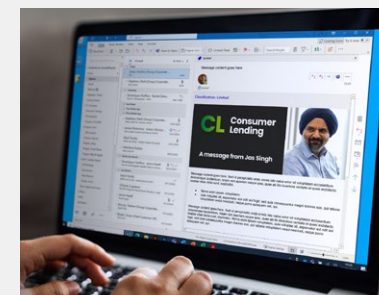

Consumer Relationships

Consumer Relationships

CR Consumer Relationships

CR
Consumer Relationships

Examples used in situ

Colour

Goes through the green

Introduction

Colour plays a vital role for Lloyds Banking Group. It establishes brand recognition and standout, elevates our communications, and enriches our designs.

The use of gradients, alongside our solid colours, brings a sense of dynamism and energy to our communications, reflecting our bold, progressive and modern attributes.

When using colour it's important to use your creative judgement. Always consider the environment you are creating for, the overall audience journey and their specific needs.

For example, an external, one off Helping Britain Prosper press ad would always lead with green in the headline.

Whereas pop-up banners or posters at an internal colleague event – that will be experienced in an already heavily branded environment – while featuring pops of green, can also rely more on our expanded colour palette.

As a brand, we go through the green. This means we establish green as our ownable colour from the outset.

We're a brand that embodies the colour green. It's what we're known for. That's why it's important that our different audiences always experience the colour green first, across every brand interaction, touchpoint and channel. We call this principle 'going through the green'.

Therefore our core green gradient should always take the lead at that first point of contact, e.g. website home page and literature front covers.

Our expanded colour gradients, inspired by our spectrum of customer brands, should only be used once our core green gradient has been introduced, e.g. deeper web pages and literature inside pages.

Core print palette

Our core print palette consists of our green gradient and solid colours.

Green gradient
Our green gradient should always take the lead at that first point of contact across our printed touchpoints.

When using colour it's important to use your creative judgement. Always consider the environment you are creating for, the overall audience journey and their specific needs.

Solid colours
Core green can be used for subheadings, icons, smaller infographics, pull-out boxes and panels.

Charcoal works well for type, icons and as a bold background for assets that use our gradient colours. Tints of charcoal can be useful for infographics and as a background panel behind content.

Bright green is an accent colour, so it should never dominate designs.

White space
The benefits of white space should never be underestimated. It helps project clarity and professionalism, delivering a clean and uncluttered look and feel.

Green gradient
We use one green gradient across our printed touchpoints

- Green gradient usage
- Gradient headline type
 - Supergraphics and larger hero infographics on either a White or charcoal background

Solid colours

Core green C:98 M:30 Y:95 K:0 PMS 356	Bright green C:60 M:0 Y:85 K:0 PMS 360
Charcoal C:72 M:63 Y:58 K:73 PMS 426	White C:0 M:0 Y:0 K:0

Charcoal tints

Note:
For litho printing where sharpness and clarity are important, especially for smaller copy, charcoal should be specified using the equivalent black tint (i.e. using just one plate and avoiding the registration issues associated with four plates).

Black should also be used where printing limitations restrict four colour reproduction.

Expanded print palette

Our expanded print palette consists of our colour gradients and solid colours.

Colour gradients

Our colour gradients should be used once the green gradient has already been introduced.

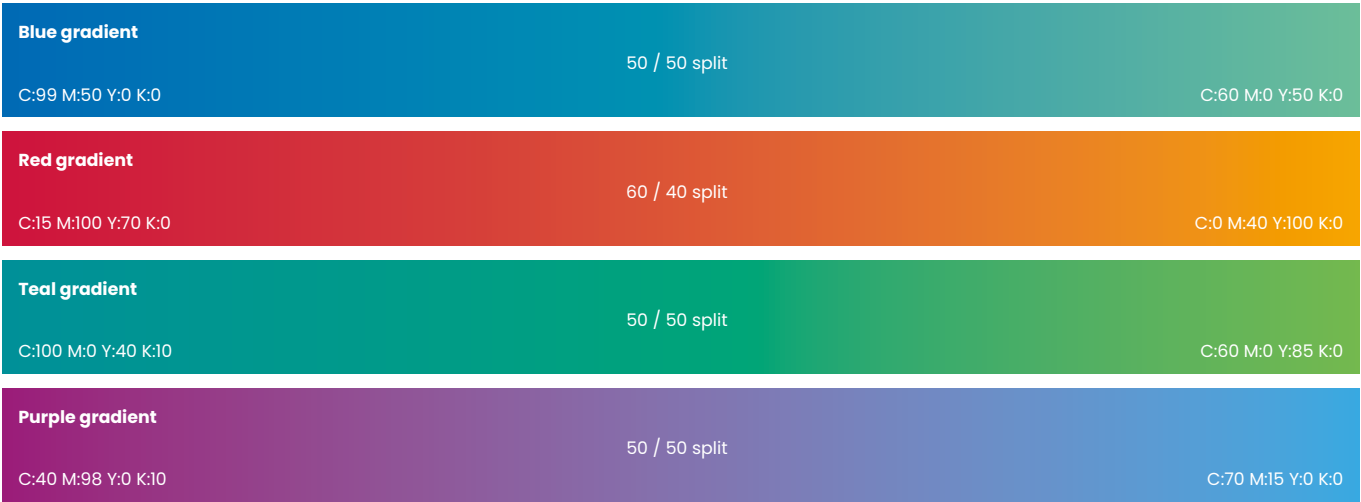

When using colour it's important to use your creative judgement. Always consider the environment you are creating for, the overall audience journey and their specific needs.

Solid colours

Our solid colours can be used for type, icons and in smaller infographics when greater colour variety is needed.

Colour gradients

We use one set of colour gradients across our printed touchpoints

Colour gradients usage

- Gradient headline type on either a White or charcoal background
- Supergraphics and larger hero infographics on either a white or charcoal background

Solid colours

Core on-screen palette

Our core on-screen palette consists of our green gradients and solid colours.

Green gradients 1 and 2

Our green gradients should always take the lead at that first point of contact across our digital touchpoints.

When using colour it's important to use your creative judgement. Always consider the environment you are creating for, the overall audience journey and their specific needs.

To make sure our content is as accessible as possible, each green gradient has a specific role, as described opposite.

Solid colours

Core green can be used for subheadings, icons, smaller infographics, pull-out boxes and panels.

Charcoal works well for type, icons and as a bold background for assets that use our gradient colours. Tints of charcoal can be useful for infographics and as a background panel behind content.

Bright green is an accent colour, so it should never dominate designs.

White space

The benefits of white space should never be underestimated. It helps project clarity and professionalism, delivering a clean and uncluttered look and feel.

Green gradients

We use two different green gradients across our digital touchpoints

Green gradient 1

60 / 40 split

R:0 G:134 B:59
HEX: #00863B

R:188 G:207 B:0
HEX: #BCCF00

Green gradient 1 usage

- Gradient headline type on a charcoal background
- All supergraphics and larger hero infographics

Note: We use white, charcoal or full bleed imagery across the majority of our backgrounds. We avoid using full bleed gradients, bar some exceptional applications, e.g. PowerPoint. Here we use green gradient 1 when copy can be landed in the safe zone (see page 34).

Solid colours

Core green

R:0 G:124 B:67
Hex: #007C43

Bright green 1

R:98 G:179 B:79
Hex: #62B34F

For use on charcoal

Bright green 2

R:89 G:161 B:71
Hex: #59A147

For use on white

Charcoal

R:40 G:40 B:40
Hex: #282828

White

R:255 G:255 B:255
Hex: #FFFFFF

Green gradient 2

60 / 40 split

R:0 G:124 B:67
HEX: #007C43

R:104 G:164 B:69
HEX: #68A445

Green gradient 2 usage

- Gradient headline type on a white background
- Smaller infographics

Note: We use white, charcoal or full bleed imagery across the majority of our backgrounds. We avoid using full bleed gradients, bar some exceptional applications, e.g. PowerPoint. Here we use green gradient 2 for backgrounds, small pull out boxes and panels when needing to land body copy

Charcoal tints

Background tint on white

R:240 G:240 B:240
Hex: #F0F0F0

Expanded on-screen palette

Our expanded on-screen palette consists of our colour gradients and solid colours.

Colour gradient sets 1 and 2

Our colour gradients should be used once the core green gradient has already been introduced.

When using colour it's important to use your creative judgement. Always consider the environment you are creating for, the overall audience journey and their specific needs.

To make sure our content is as accessible as possible, each colour gradient set has a specific role, as described opposite.

Solid colours

Our solid colours can be used for type, icons and in infographics when greater colour variety is needed.

Colour gradients

We use two different colour gradient sets across our digital touchpoints

Blue gradient 1 R:0 G:116 B:200 HEX: #0074C8 50 / 50 split R:108 G:190 B:153 HEX: #6CBE99
Red gradient 1 R:223 G:22 B:66 HEX: #DF1642 60 / 40 split R:247 G:166 B:0 HEX: #F7A600
Teal gradient 1 R:0 G:131 B:138 HEX: #00838A 50 / 50 split R:117 G:185 B:78 HEX: #75B94E
Purple gradient 1 R:189 G:63 B:147 HEX: #BD3F93 50 / 50 split R:54 G:169 B:225 HEX: #36A9E1

Colour gradient set 1 usage

- Gradient headline type on a charcoal background
- All supergraphics and larger hero infographics

Note: Please see the previous page

Solid colours

Blue R:24 G:80 B:157 Hex: #18509D	Red R:206 G:20 B:61 Hex: #CE143C	Teal R:0 G:137 B:150 Hex: #008996	Purple R:138 G:28 B:105 Hex: #8A1C69	Orange R:215 G:78 B:20 Hex: #D74E14
--	---	--	---	--

Blue gradient 2 R:0 G:106 B:180 HEX: #006AB4 50 / 50 split R:92 G:161 B:131 HEX: #5CA183
Red gradient 2 R:206 G:20 B:61 HEX: #CE143D 60 / 40 split R:202 G:135 B:0 HEX: #CA8700
Teal gradient 2 R:0 G:131 B:138 HEX: #00838A 50 / 50 split R:104 G:164 B:69 HEX: #68A445
Purple gradient 2 R:155 G:28 B:121 HEX: #9B1C79 50 / 50 split R:50 G:157 B:210 HEX: #329DD2

Colour gradient set 2 usage

- Gradient headline type on a white background
- Smaller infographics

Note: Please see the previous page

Using gradient colours as backgrounds

For some exceptional applications our on-screen gradients can be used as full bleed backgrounds, e.g PowerPoint.

Gradient 1 colours

Our brighter gradient 1 colours are our preferred full bleed background colours. However, they can only be used if the copy is kept within the safe zone.

The safe zone is defined as the lefthand 50% of the page, as shown opposite, i.e. the darkest area of the gradient.

No copy should fall into the righthand side of the page, i.e. the lightest area of the gradient.

Avoid using gradient 1 colours for small pull-out boxes and panels.

Gradient 2 colours

If a lot copy needs to extend across the whole gradient, i.e. outside of the safe zone, then our gradient 2 colours should be used as a full bleed background.

Gradient 2 colours can also be used for pull-out boxes and panels.

Note

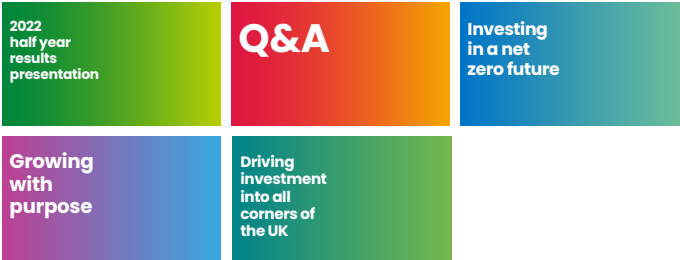

To ensure that we're meeting our AA standard for accessibility on-screen, all copy used on top of either our Gradient 1 or 2 colours should be 18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold.

Using gradient 1 colours as full bleed backgrounds

 This area defines the copy safe zone (the lefthand 50% of the page). No copy should fall into the righthand side of the page.

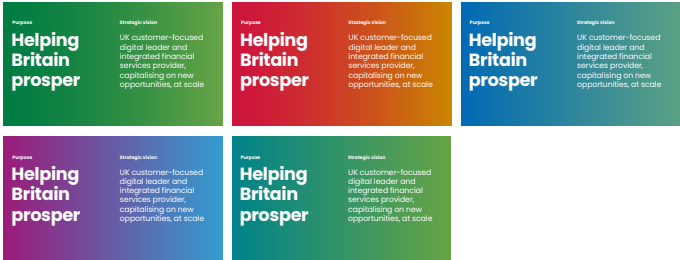

Examples using the safe zone for copy

Using gradient 2 colours as full bleed backgrounds

Examples using the whole gradient background for copy

Colour accessibility

This page shows the only colour combinations for solid colours that can be used for on-screen typography. Never use these colours in any other combinations.

All of these colour combinations meet WCAG* 2.2 AA standard for accessibility (our corporate standard).

* The Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (known as WCAG) are an internationally recognised set of recommendations for improving web accessibility. They explain how to make digital services, websites and apps accessible to everyone.

Note
Acceptable colour contrast and accessibility should be considered across all of our channels and branded content, not just those in the digital space. While this page shows the approved on-screen colour combinations, the recommendation is that they should be used as a guide for our printed executions as well.

Approved on-screen colour combinations for solid colours

Core green		White AAA (18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold)
Bright green 1	Charcoal AAA (18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold)	Bright green 2	White AA (18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold)	Charcoal AAA (18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold)
Charcoal	White AAA	Bright green 1 AAA (18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold)	Teal AA (18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold)	Orange AA (18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold)
White	Core green AAA (18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold)	Bright green 2 AA (18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold)	Charcoal AAA
	Blue AAA	Red AAA (18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold)	Teal AA (18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold)	Purple AAA	Orange AA (18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold)
Blue	White AAA	Red	White AAA (18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold)	Teal	White AA (18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold)
Purple	White AAA	Orange	White AA (18pt+ or 14pt+ Bold)

Proportion of colour use

Our core colours (green, charcoal and white) lead across our touchpoints. Our expanded colour palette comes in once green has been introduced.

The proportions shown in the diagram opposite aren't an exact science, instead it should work more as a guide to help inform an overall feeling of balance when using our brand colours.

Approximate proportions of charcoal, white and colour gradients across our touchpoints

Using gradients vs solid colours

The following guide outlines where colour can come to life across our brand. It shows where we use gradients vs where we use solid colours.

Gradients

Our gradients are used for our more visual and brand defining assets.

Use them for gradient headline type, expressive type and numbers, supergraphics and hero infographics.

For some exceptional applications our on-screen gradients can be used as full bleed backgrounds or as pull-out boxes and panels, e.g PowerPoint.

Solid colours

Our solid colours are used for assets that have more of a supporting role and for where legibility is important.

Use them for pull-out boxes and panels, small stats and facts, icons and smaller infographics.

Note

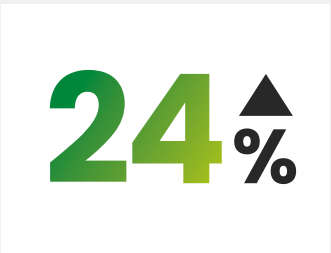

While our brand is rich and vibrant, it's important that the number of colours used is controlled and consistent. Always avoid using too many different colours together on a single page.

Where we use gradients

Gradient headline type

Lead headings always include one of our colour gradients to highlight an important word or phrase.

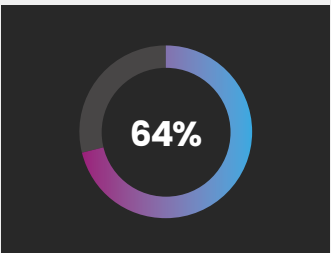

Expressive type and numbers

Use a gradient within expressive type and numbers to add visual interest to your designs.

Supergraphics

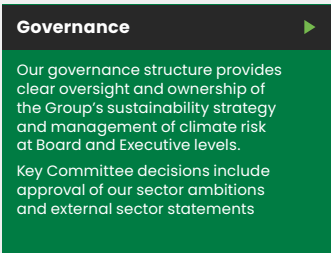

Supergraphics use either a single gradient or one of the approved gradient pairs in their design.

Hero infographics

Use gradients where appropriate, to both lift the design and to hero larger more important infographics.

Where we use solid colours

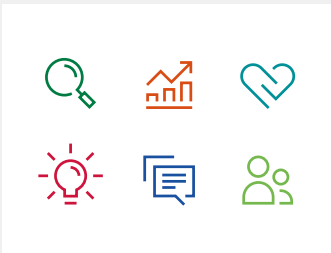

Small pull-out boxes and panels

Solid colours work best to ensure legibility. Depending on the design, any solid colour can be used.

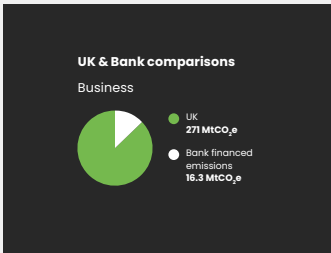

Small stats, facts or subheads

Charcoal is the default colour, but depending on the design, any solid colour can be used.

Icons

Icons are a good opportunity to land colour. Solid colours can be used as long as they're accessible.

Smaller infographics

Solid colours work best to ensure legibility. Depending on the design, any solid colour can be used.

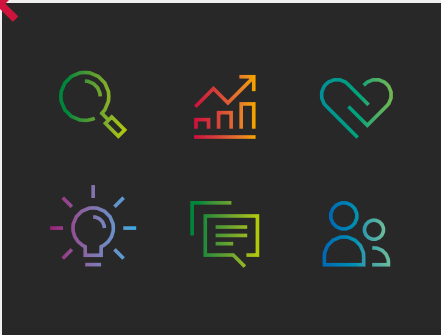

Don'ts

The following examples show what to avoid when using our colour palettes.

What to avoid

Avoid using full bleed gradients, bar some exceptional applications, e.g. PowerPoint.

Avoid using gradients in our icons (these always use solid colours from either our core or expanded palette).

Avoid changing the master gradients or creating your own new gradients with different colours.

Avoid using solid red or the red gradient for numbers, as they can denote negative high risk or financial loss.

Avoid flipping the gradient colours (the darker colour should be on the left and the brighter colour on the right).

Avoid using gradient type on a grey mid tone where standout is poor (the background should be close to either white or charcoal).

Typeface

Bold and confident

123

abc

ABC

Overview

Our brand typeface is Poppins and we use it across all our communications for both body copy and headings.

Poppins is an open source, sans-serif typeface. Its geometric qualities and high 'x' height means it has great clarity and legibility for both print and on-screen use.

Poppins has a broad range of weights, with the most useful being Light, Regular, SemiBold and Bold.

Our distinct typeface, coupled with our tone of voice, ensures we can be clear, bold and impactful with our brand messaging.

System typeface

Our system typeface is Arial. It should only be used in exceptional circumstances when Poppins is unavailable.

Our brand typeface

Poppins Light

AaBbCc 1234

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz
&"?£%@ 0123456789

Poppins SemiBold

AaBbCc 1234

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz
&"?£%@ 0123456789

Poppins Regular

AaBbCc 1234

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz
&"?£%@ 0123456789

Poppins Bold

AaBbCc 1234

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz
&"?£%@ 0123456789

Typesetting and hierarchy

The guide opposite outlines some top-line principles to help establish a consistency approach to typesetting.

This isn't the only way our typefaces can be used, but it's a strong starting point.

Always use a grid to add design rigour to your layouts and avoid very wide measures that are difficult to read.

Different weights

Bold is used for all main headings, titles and body copy headings. Regular is the preferred weight for body copy.

Light and SemiBold can also be used when a greater type hierarchy is required.

Bespoke adjustments

In some instances in headings at larger point sizes, especially where there are no descenders and ascenders, the leading can feel too open. Here the leading can be tightened further. Use your creative judgement and always avoid the descenders and ascenders touching.

Ligatures

Ligatures should always be turned off.

How to work out the leading

If the leading is specified at 1.2 times the type size, it means you multiply the type point size by 1.2, e.g. 10pt type x 1.2 = 12pt leading (10/12 pt). This means the leading can be consistently worked out for every point size.

Using Poppins

Headings and titles

Growing with clear purpose

- Poppins Bold
- Sentence case, ranged left
- Leading set to 1.15 times the type size
- Tracking set to -20 Metrics
- Charcoal or white, and one of the gradient colours

Subheadings or supporting copy

We've provided £12 billion in funding to the social housing sector since 2018 so more people can have a place to call home.

- Poppins Bold or Regular
- Sentence case, ranged left
- Leading set to 1.2 times the type size
- Tracking set to -10 Metrics
- Charcoal, core green or white

Body copy

Note 18: Financial assets at amortised cost

Note 18: Financial assets at amortised cost
The movement tables are compiled by comparing the position at 31 December to that at the beginning of the year. Transfers between stages are deemed to have taken place at the start of the reporting period, with all other movements shown in the stage in which the asset is held at 31 December, with the exception of those held within purchased or originated credit-impaired, which are not transferable.

- Poppins Bold or SemiBold for body copy headings
- Poppins Regular or Light for body copy
- Sentence case, ranged left
- Leading set to 1.35 times the type size
- Tracking set to 0 Metrics
- Charcoal or white

Gradient headline type

Our gradient headline type is used for all lead headings and messaging. As a powerful and brand-defining asset in its own right, it needs to be carefully considered and managed.

Avoid using our gradients on every word in a headline. Instead we use them to highlight the action we're taking or the outcome we're delivering. When choosing which word or words to highlight, think about which part of our message is the most important to land.

Applying gradients

- The only gradients we use are those specified in the colour section
- Make sure you're using the correct gradient spec for print or on-screen
- Never use more than one gradient colour at any one time within a heading
- Apply the gradient either horizontally left to right for longer words and numbers, or diagonally from the top left to the bottom right for shorter words or numbers
- After you've added the gradient to the words, use the 'Gradient Swatch Tool' in InDesign or Illustrator to define the direction and to ensure the full gradient stretches across all the letters or words
- Avoid flipping the gradient colours, unless it helps with legibility over imagery

Examples on charcoal

Helping
more people have a place to call home

Growing
with clear purpose

Moving to a low carbon future

Behind
British business

Helping those who need it

Examples on white

Investing in a net zero future

Impact starts with you

Supporting first-time buyers

Driving
Britain
forwards

Growing
our business sustainably

Using gradient headline type

As well as using our gradient type over solid charcoal and white, we can also use it over our primary brand photography.

Contrast and legibility

To make sure there's good contrast and legibility, it's important that the gradient type is positioned carefully on either a clear dark area, or a clear light area of an image, as shown opposite.

Always avoid areas of an image where the contrast and standout of the gradient colour could be compromised.

It's important, especially in the digital space for the image area behind the gradient colour to be either as close to charcoal or white as possible.

Images may have to be recropped or backgrounds extended and / or darkened or lightened to help with standout.

In exceptional circumstances there is the option to flip the gradient colours to improve legibility.

Colour matching

Always think about your gradient colour selection. In some instances it may be possible to select a specific gradient that complements a colour already in the image, e.g. using the red gradient for type where the person is wearing red.

Examples on dark backgrounds

Impact
starts
with you

Helping
Britain
Prosper

Examples on light backgrounds

Behind
British
business

Growing
with clear
purpose

Expressive type

The majority of our headings should use type at the same point size. However in some instances expressive type, using two different point sizes, can be used to grab attention or to make messages more visually engaging.

Consider it a useful and additional creative asset alongside our photography and supergraphics.

Principles

- Only use Poppins Bold
- Never use more than two point sizes together in one design
- The type can use charcoal or white, and one of the gradient colours
- Never use more than one gradient colour at any one time
- Keep the number of words to a minimum to ensure it's easily understood

Vertical type

While horizontal headings are always preferred, there is the option in some bespoke applications to typeset headings vertically.

They are most effective in narrow portrait formats, where space is at a premium. Vertical headings also work especially well on larger format executions, like posters, banners and event stands.

Examples on charcoal

Ideas
that build new futures

Grow
with purpose

Driving
investment into all corners of the UK

Impact starts
with you

Examples on white

Grow
Focus
Change

Q&A

//
Continued
business momentum with an opportunity to do more
//

Vertical type

We're growing our business sustainably by shaping finance as a force for good.

Grow

Acting on change

Our governance structure provides clear oversight and ownership of the climate-related risks and opportunities.

customer
focus

We serve millions of individuals, families and businesses, big and small, every day.

Welcome

We are the largest UK retail and commercial financial services provider with around 25 million customers and a presence in nearly every community.

Expressive numbers

As well as expressive type, expressive numbers can also be used to add more visual interest to your designs.

They can be especially important and useful when facts and figures need to take the lead, e.g. corporate reporting, events and environments.

The same principles outlined previously for expressive type also apply here.

Principles

- Only use Poppins Bold
- Never use more than two point sizes together in one design
- The type can use charcoal or white, and one of the gradient colours
- Never use more than one gradient colour at any one time
- Keep the layout clean and simple

Note

Always avoid using solid red or the red gradient for numbers as they can denote negative high risk or financial loss.

Examples on charcoal

£12 billion provided in funding to the social housing sector since 2018

£13.5 trillion

Conference room

01

Examples on white

24%▲

39%

Explicque lam illaut volupis nam re volenis distios que pla denempo ritistur.

Underlying profit

£8.0_{bn}

43%

Explicque lam illaut volupis nam re volenis distios que pla denempo ritistur.

Statutory profit after tax

£5.9_{bn}

£3.4_{bn}

Don'ts

The following examples show what to avoid when using our typeface.

What to avoid

£12 bn provided in funding to the social housing sector
since 2018

Avoid using our gradients on every word in a heading (it should always be used with either charcoal or white).

Growing
with clear
purpose

Avoid applying the gradient incorrectly. Use the 'Gradient Swatch Tool' to ensure the full gradient is always visible across all the letters or words.

The Housebuilding
Sustainability
Finance Framework

Avoid using our gradients in lower level headings. Where possible, it's reserved for main headings to highlight either the action or the outcome.

Helping
Britain
Prosper

Avoid using gradient type on a grey mid tone where standout is poor (the background should be close to either white or charcoal).

Ideas that build new futures

Avoid using more than two point sizes when creating expressive type.

Q&A

Avoid using multiple gradients together in headlines, expressive type or numbers (the use of colour needs to be carefully controlled).

Photography
Celebrating people

Photography overview

Photography is an integral part of our brand. It allows us to hero our Group icon, celebrate our colleagues and to demonstrate our positive role in society, supporting people, communities and businesses across Britain.

We divide our photography into primary and secondary.

Primary photography

This is our lead brand photography used at that first point of contact across all our communications and touch points.

Primary photography consists of black horse photography and people photography.

Secondary photography

This is our supporting photography used when our primary photography has already been introduced.

Secondary photography showcases the bigger picture, adding richness and depth to our stories.

Primary photography

Black horse photography

Our powerful Group icon

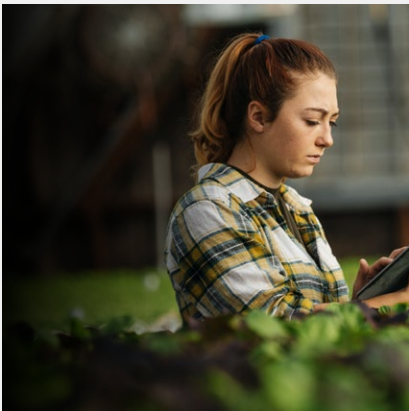

People photography

Colleague portraits

Communities and businesses

Secondary photography

Photography that showcases the bigger picture, adding richness and depth to our stories

Black horse photography

The role it plays

- Acts as an immediate shorthand for the brand
- Helps the Group to communicate bold brand cues in a single, iconic image, e.g. stature, agility, solidity, expertise, heritage and trust

Where it's used

We primarily use our black horse photography to connect to our non-customer audiences, like investors and opinion formers, where we need to land more brand recognition and gravitas.

That means we only use it occasionally, and in our more prominent, high-value spaces and channels – like the Group website landing page, corporate report covers or events.

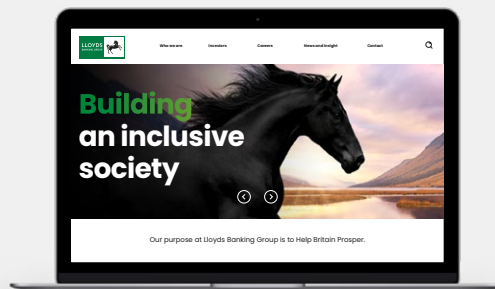

The black horse is an instantly recognisable and powerful Group icon, a signal of who we are and what we stand for

Examples of best practice photography

Annual report and accounts

Group website

Art direction and principles

The photography principles opposite are important in maintaining the strength and equity of our Group icon.

Use the guidance as part of a specific shoot brief when commissioning photoshoots, or to help you find and judge imagery sourced from Getty Images.

Choosing the horse

- Our horse is always a healthy, strong, thoroughbred stallion. We never use a mare, race horse or working horse
- Always black from nose to tail, shown on his own as a single adult horse
- The body shape should be well proportioned with graceful lines – a chiselled head, deep chest and lean body
- The mane should be well-defined and free-flowing
- Our horse is always spirited and free – never tethered, captured or contained
- We never show human hands touching the horse
- Ideally, the horse should be facing left to right, and never show it lying it down

Art direction

- Always use professional shots of the horse, capturing its stature, beauty and grace
- Depending on the context, you can reproduce the horse in either full colour or black and white
- Ideally, show the whole horse. You can crop it in certain instances. As a guide, keep the head, neck and shoulders in the frame. Stay away from abstract or very close crops of the body
- Make sure the horse's body is beautifully lit, with a healthy sheen on his coat, and a richness of colour. Use directional light to add shade and tone

Backgrounds

- We use two different backgrounds for our horse: natural and neutral
 - Natural backgrounds give the horse a sense of place and context. For example, landscapes and countryside where the horse can roam freely
 - Neutral backgrounds are either white or grey
- Our black horse photography should never:
- Be featured in strange or obscure environments
 - Show people or other animals within the frame
 - Feature man-made items, like cars, houses or fences
 - Have a cluttered background or foreground – the black horse should always be the only subject
 - Use any special effects or 'artistic' background treatments
 - Use dark or black backgrounds, that could leave the horse's iconic properties feeling lost

People photography

Our people photography covers colleague portraits and the communities and businesses we serve.

The three principles opposite, inspired by our brand strategy, should guide our approach to people photography.

Through our photography, we champion the diversity of modern Britain, reflecting the broad range of our colleagues, communities and businesses. Always consider how you are representing people, being mindful of gender, age, ethnicity, ability and sexual identities. Refer to the 'Introducing our brand' section for our eight guiding principles and where to find more information.

We have three overarching principles that we apply to our people photography

Real life

We portray people confidently in the moment, across a variety of situations at work or at home to reflect the real lives of our people, communities and businesses across Britain.

Real people

Authenticity is key. We choose portraits of people that feel warm, genuine and natural, captured in a variety of emotions. They never look staged or contrived.

Real human impact

Our photography celebrates the difference we make to the lives of people, communities and businesses. They should feel empowered and positive to reflect our purpose.

Colleague portraits

Bold and proud

Colleague portraits celebrate the breadth and diversity of our people, as well as our ambition, determination and spirit to make a difference.

Use the guidance as part of a specific shoot brief when commissioning photoshoots, or to help you find and judge imagery sourced from Getty Images.

While this section shows a mix of stock and real colleague images, the ambition is to always photograph real colleagues wherever possible.

Dark and light backgrounds

To make sure our gradient headline type is as legible as possible over imagery, we have two distinct approaches: those with a dark background and those with a light background.

Note

On the AEM there is a library of purchased, royalty-free images that have been retouched for use.

Useful search words for Getty Images:

- Employee portrait
- Close-up portrait
- Honest and candid
- Employee candid

Art direction and principles

The examples opposite show a selection of best practice colleague photography.

Subject

- Warm, natural and authentic, capturing a variety of emotions
- Candid and in the moment, always making a positive connection
- Mix of close-ups and mid crops, either looking at, or away from camera
- Captured within their working environment or at home

Backgrounds

- Shallow depth of field with the background always out of focus
- Use of dark or light backgrounds, always with some context and variety of tone
- Light backgrounds should never look completely washed out, or too stark
- Dark backgrounds should never look too dark, or a flat monotone colour
- Always consider clear background areas for positioning messaging (extending the background can often help)

Note

Unless there's a very good reason, avoid flipping our imagery, e.g. wedding rings and watches need to be on the correct hand.

Communities and businesses

Making a real impact

This photography focuses on the positive outcomes and impact we have on the wider society.

Use the following guidance as part of a specific shoot brief when commissioning photoshoots, or to help you find and judge imagery sourced from Getty Images.

Backgrounds

To make sure our gradient headline type is as legible as possible over imagery, we have two distinct approaches: those with a dark background and those with a light background.

Note

On the AEM there is a library of purchased, royalty-free images that have been retouched for use.

Useful search words for Getty Images:

- Business portrait
- Close-up portrait
- Honest and candid
- Business candid

Art direction and principles

The examples opposite show a selection of best practice community and business photography.

Subject

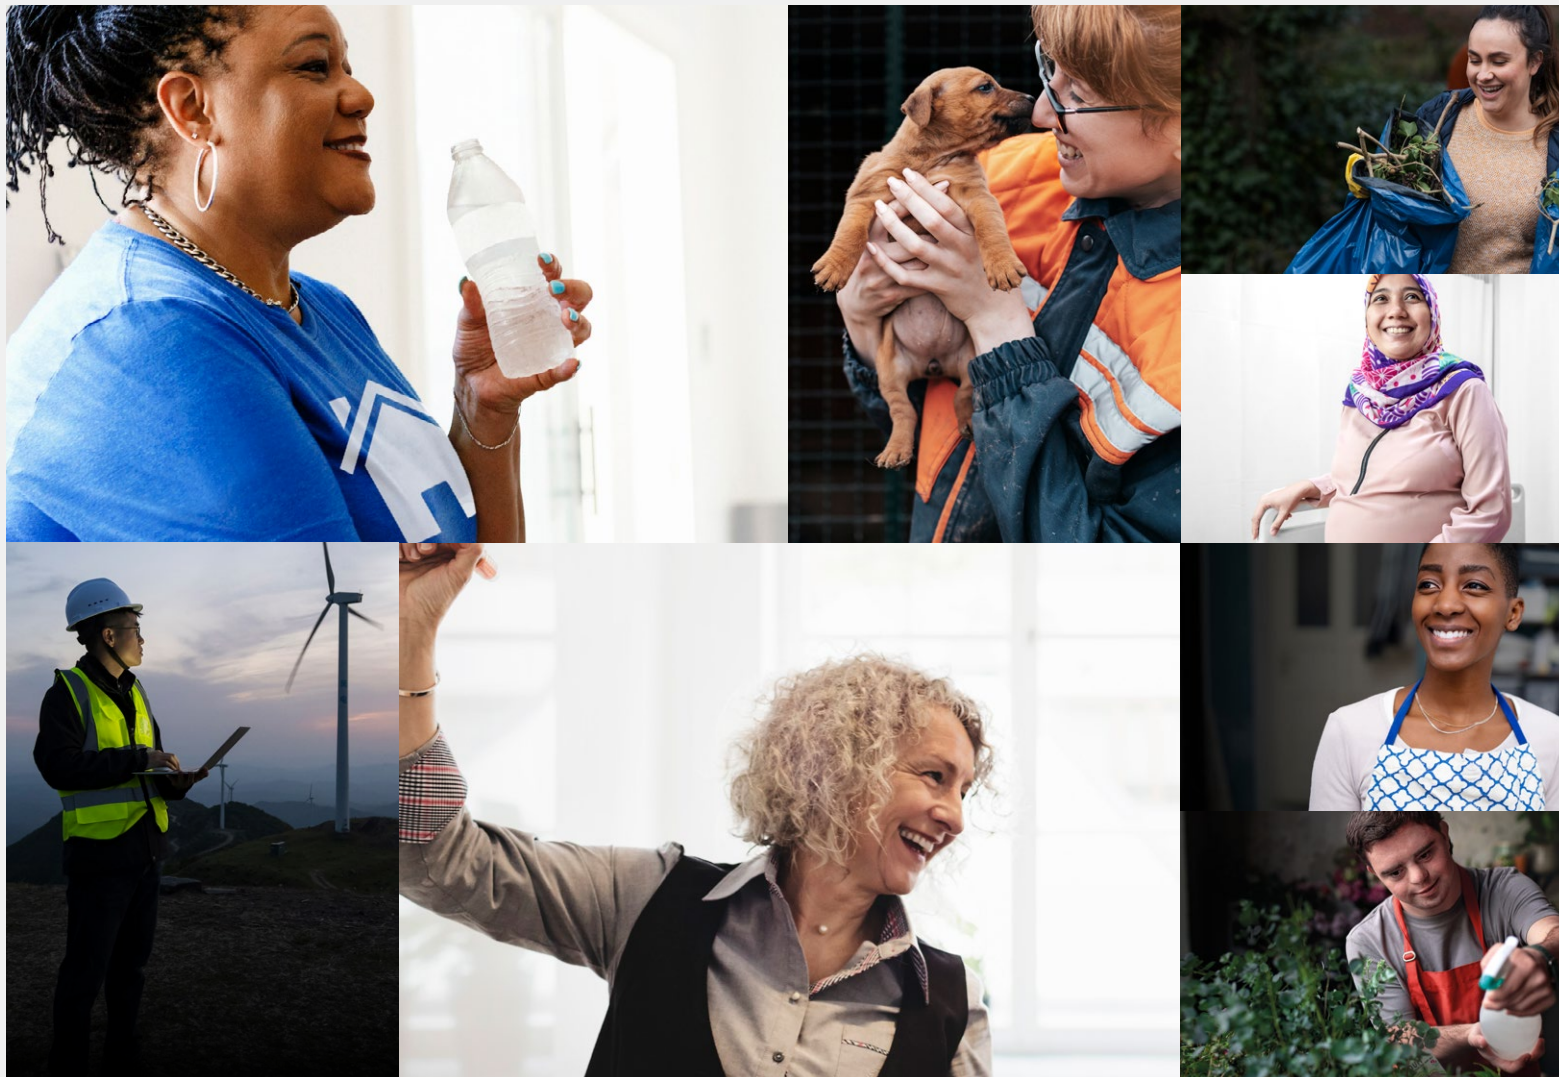

- Warm, natural and authentic, capturing a variety of emotions
- Candid and in the moment, always making a positive connection
- Mix of close-ups, mid and wider crops, always looking away from camera

Backgrounds

- Shallow depth of field with the background always out of focus
- Use of dark or light backgrounds, always with some context and variety of tone
- Light backgrounds should never look completely washed out, or too stark
- Dark backgrounds should never look too dark, or a flat monotone colour
- Always consider clear background areas for positioning messaging (extending the background may be needed)

Note

Background context is more important here, but never let it dominate or feel too busy. Consider one or two props to help tell the story (clothing and / or background detail).

Secondary photography

Our secondary photography showcases the bigger picture, adding richness and depth to our stories.

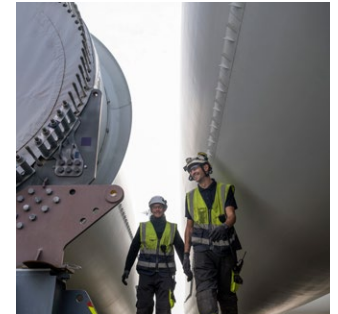

It helps to demonstrate our positive role in society to make progress and enable positive change in the world at large.

This is our supporting photography used when our primary photography has already been introduced.

Principles

- More candid, reportage and editorial in feel
- Captures a variety of subjects and themes
- Zoomed out view to show more of the scene and context
- Bold use of scale, composition and perspective
- Powerful cropping to add drama and impact

Examples of best practice secondary photography

Retouching people photography

Imagery that is photographed or sourced from Getty, will always need some degree of retouching to bring it in line with our brand look and feel.

To make sure our gradient headline type is as legible as possible, our people photography uses either a dark or light background. This background may need to be darkened or lightened to help the type stand out. The background may also need to be extended to work in specific formats.

General considerations

- Overall the image should look natural and warm, with no obvious colour cast or harsh contrast
- Skin tones should look natural and not overly saturated
- Always look for images that already have a natural clutter free dark or light background
- Dark and light backgrounds should never be a flat solid colour. There should always be some degree of detail that helps establish the scene or context
- Always compare a retouched image with the best practice set and make any final adjustments (e.g. colour balancing)
- Additional retouching may be needed for specific formats and applications

A guide to darkening and lightening backgrounds

Masking the person

Isolate the person in focus from the background by creating a clean, high-quality mask, paying special attention to the hair.

Place the masked layer above the background layers and adjust brightness and contrast with the 'Curves' adjustment to blend the person into the background colour.

Adjusting the background

Photographed or sourced images should ideally already have either a dark or light background.

However in some instances the background may need to be darkened or lightened further to make sure our gradient headline type has sufficient stand out.

Avoid turning a dark background light or a light background dark, as it may look unnatural.

A light background should have naturally light / white tones with hints of desaturated colour that help establish the scene or context.

A dark background should have naturally dark / charcoal tones with hints of desaturated colour that help establish the scene or context.

Darkening backgrounds

1. Place the layer with the person's mask on the top layer.

2. Add a charcoal colour layer (R40 G40 B40) over the original background, set the blending mode to 'Multiply', and adjust the opacity as needed.

3. If necessary, add a second charcoal layer with blending mode set to 'Normal', and adjust the opacity as needed (it should only need a small percentage of opacity).

4. On the charcoal layers add a gradient to the mask to reveal the natural background, adding depth to the image. Be conscious of where the gradient headline type could be placed, as these should be the darkest areas.

5. Always test the backgrounds by placing the gradient headline type on the darker areas. The background may need to be darkened still further.

Lightening backgrounds

1. Place the layer with the person's mask on the top layer.

2. Add a white layer over the original background, set the blending mode to 'Soft Light', and adjust the opacity as needed.

3. If necessary, add a second white layer with the blending mode set to 'Normal', and adjust the opacity as needed (it should only need a small percentage of opacity).

4. On the white layers add a gradient to the mask to reveal the natural background, adding depth to the image. Be conscious of where the gradient headline type could be placed, as these should be the lightest areas.

5. Always test the backgrounds by placing the gradient headline type on the lighter areas. The background may need to be lightened still further.

Don'ts

The following examples show what to avoid when selecting and using our photography.

What to avoid

Avoid using cutout imagery, studio shots or imagery where there is no background context.

Avoid selecting images where the subject is obscured by people or objects in the foreground.

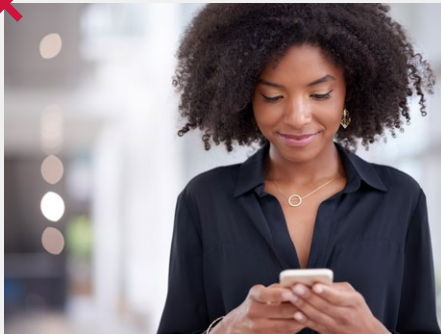

Avoid using images that feel overly contrived, staged or clichéd.

Avoid passive subjects. Our people images are always animated and engaged.

Avoid overly busy and cluttered images where there is no real focal point or space for our gradient headline type.

Avoid pictures of colleagues working or using tech. It should be a formal portrait where they're aware of the camera.

Supergraphics

Use with purpose

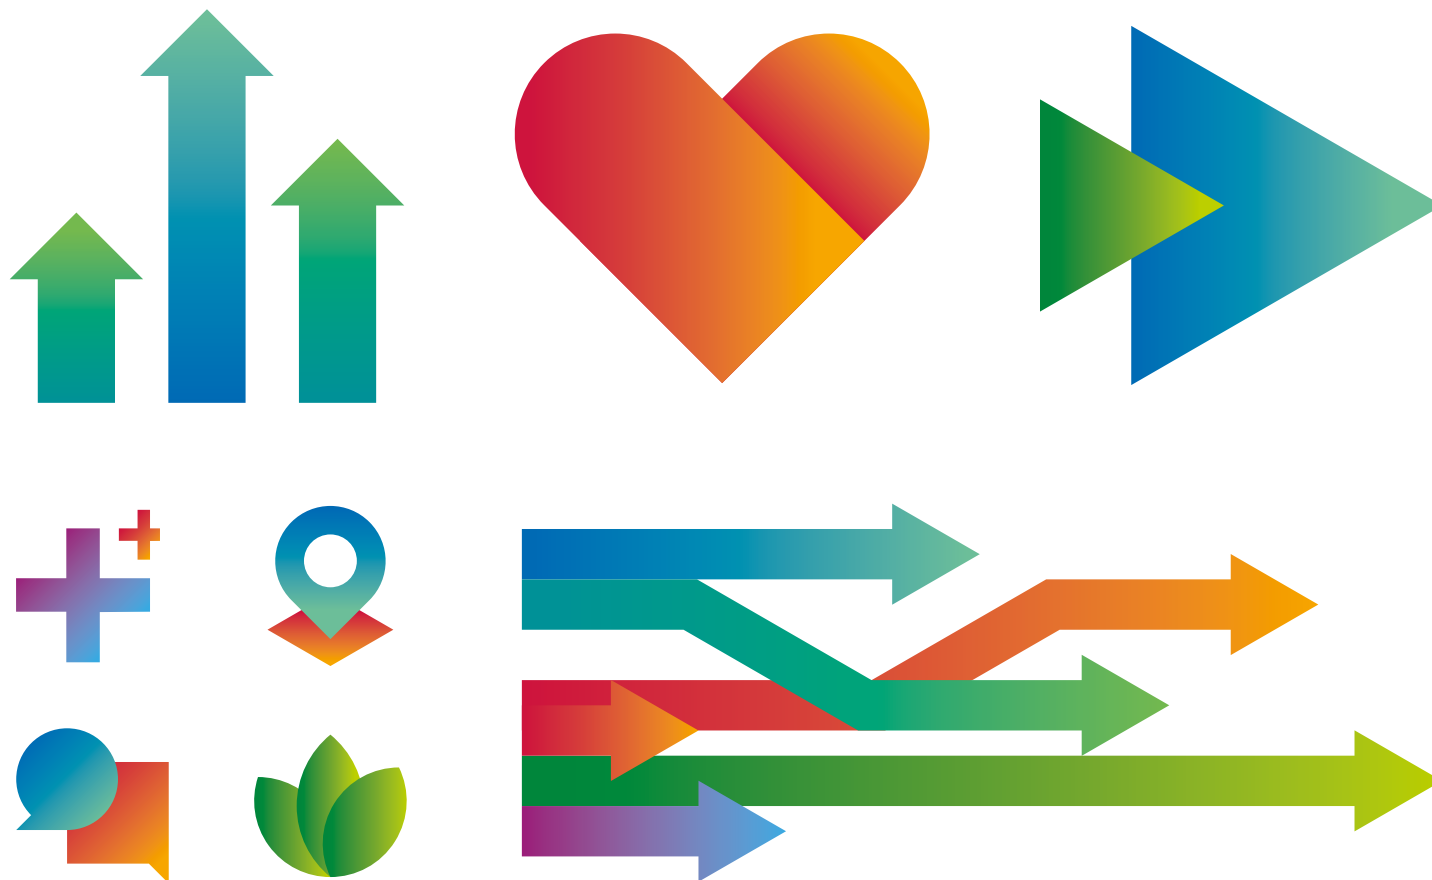

Overview

Our supergraphics are a lead creative asset used across our touchpoints.

Compared to our icons, supergraphics have a much more engaging and emotive role. They are bold, colourful, modern and eye-catching visual assets.

As simple and stylised geometric shapes, they are easy to work with and very recognisable.

When used alongside our other core assets, our supergraphics help add richness, depth and standout for the Lloyds Banking Group brand.

Best practice examples

Shown opposite are examples of best practice supergraphics.

All of these (except the example bottom right) are standard supergraphics. More bespoke supergraphics can be created for a specific use or format, e.g. large scale event panels and environments.

Design principles

- Iconic, smart and intelligent
- Conceptual rather than a literal representation
- Drawn flat or using an isometric projection, never 3D
- Geometric, using shapes based on circles, squares and triangles
- Simplified and refined, but never too basic or overly complex
- The object or symbol used should be universally recognisable
- Use of consistent angles, e.g. 45°, 60°, 90° and 120° (isometric)
- Approximately square shaped, avoiding very tall or very wide shapes
- Use of a single gradient or one of the approved gradient pairs

Examples of best practice supergraphics on charcoal

Note: the five supergraphics above can be used both internally and externally, however their internal usage is restricted to representing and signposting our Group values.

Example of a bespoke supergraphic for a specific use or format, e.g. large scale event panels and environments

Values supergraphics

Internal use

The five supergraphics shown opposite have a restricted use internally. Here they are only used to represent and signpost our Group values: People-first, Bold, Inclusive, Sustainable and Trust.

Internally they only use one gradient colour and should only appear in the colours shown opposite. These colours should never change.

External use

Whilst their use is restricted internally, these supergraphics can be used externally to support other appropriate subjects, and here the gradient colours can change.

Values supergraphics and supporting copy

People-first

We put people first to go further for customers

Bold

We're bold and take action

Inclusive

We're inclusive to value everyone

Sustainable

We champion sustainability to care for our planet

Trust

We trust each other to achieve more together

People-first

We put people first to go further for customers

Bold

We're bold and take action

Inclusive

We're inclusive to value everyone

Sustainable

We champion sustainability to care for our planet

Trust

We trust each other to achieve more together

Creating supergraphics

When creating supergraphics always refer to the design principles, using them as a guide and check list.

All new supergraphics should be created and artworked using the master Illustrator ai file and sized consistently on the artboard.

Once the concept and shape has been approved, careful consideration should be given to applying the gradient colours.

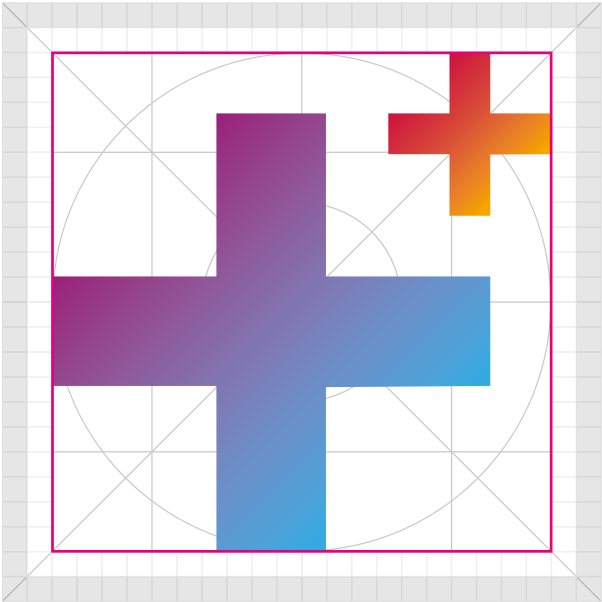

Applying the gradient colours

- Use a single gradient or one of the approved gradient pairs
- RGB supergraphics should only use the gradient set 1 colours specified in the colour section
- Gradient direction should complement the shape (angled, vertical or horizontal)
- Gradient colours should be contrasting when shapes touch or overlap
- Gradient colours can be changed to suit specific uses and needs, as long as the principles are followed

Note

All new supergraphics must be approved by the Brand Team: brand@lloydsbanking.com

Supergraphics use a 130mm square artboard

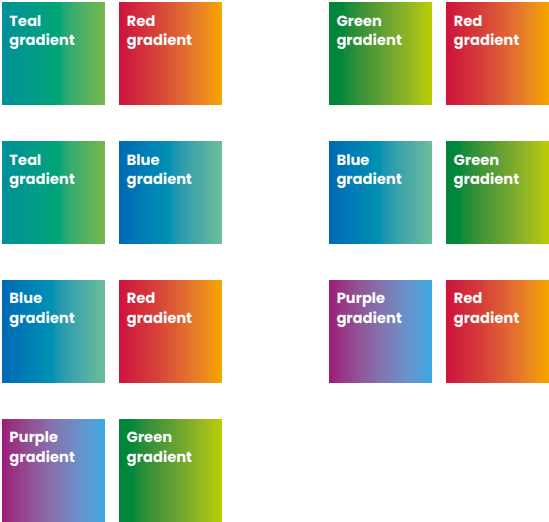

Our supergraphics have been optically sized to feel consistent and sit approximately within this square area.

Exclusion zone

Recommended gradient combinations

Gradient combination to avoid

Using supergraphics

Our supergraphics are used intelligently to confidently grab attention, draw the eye to content and to breathe life into our core messages, themes and ideas.

They are especially useful when photography may not be available or appropriate.

As one of our lead creative assets, supergraphics should always be used at larger sizes. Avoid use supergraphics at small sizes for signposting or navigation (this is the role of our icons).

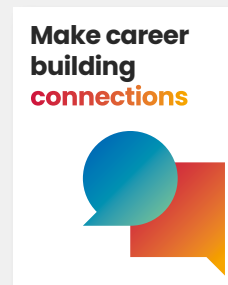

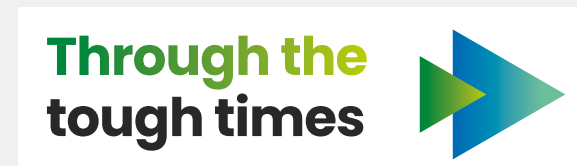

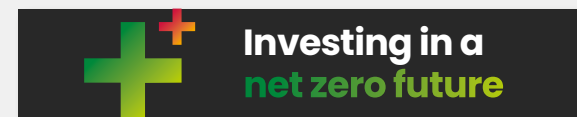

Principles

- They can be used either thematically or metaphorically to illustrate words and concepts
- They can be used either with clear space around them, or boldly cropped off the page, adding impact
- Use them on charcoal or white backgrounds only

Note

While our brand is rich and vibrant, it's important that the number of colours used together is carefully managed and controlled. Use your creative judgement and consider the environment you are creating for, the overall audience journey and their specific needs.

Best practice examples

Don'ts

The following examples show what to avoid when creating and using our supergraphics.

What to avoid

Avoid creating supergraphics that are too simple or too basic.

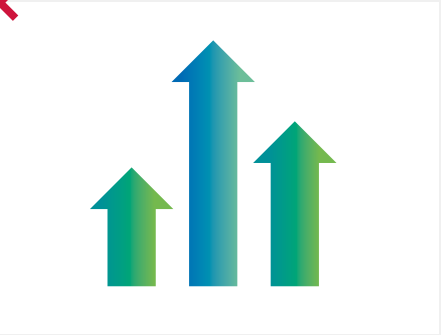

Avoid creating supergraphics that are 3D (only flat on or using isometric projection).

Avoid creating literal representations of subjects, or detailed scenes or landscapes.

Avoid creating supergraphics that are a mix of styles, or too detailed and complex.

Avoid using the gradient in a direction that goes against the direction of the infographic (should be bottom to top, not left to right).

Avoid using our solid colours in supergraphics (always use our gradient colours).

Icons

Clear signposting

Icons

Our icons are a supporting asset to help navigate and signpost content across our touchpoints.

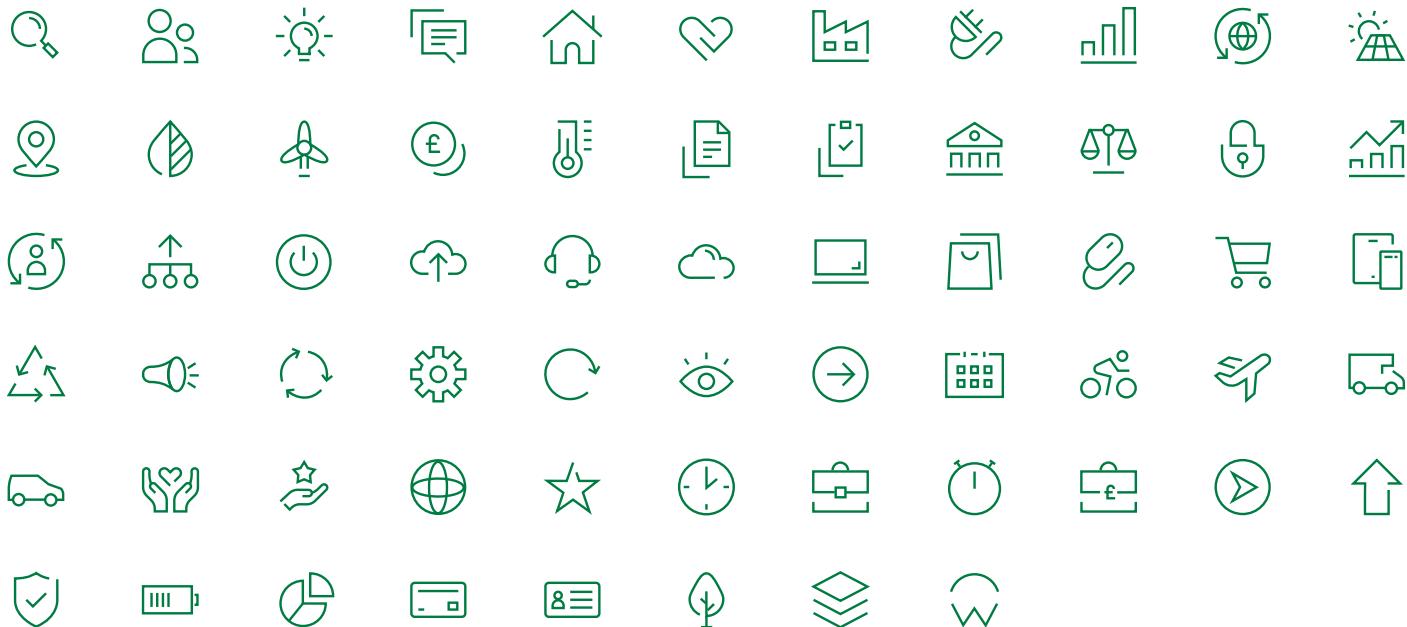

We have two different types of icon: standard icons for the majority of uses and functional icons optimised for use at very small sizes.

Design principles

- Distinct and stylised, never too basic or overly complex
- Clear and easily identifiable, never too abstract
- Geometric, using shapes based on circles, squares and triangles
- One consistent stroke weight with square terminals
- Square corners are preferred, but round corners can be used when the shape dictates
- Use of consistent angles where possible
- Always a break in the stroke in at least one place (in the outer shape or the inner detail, or where it occurs naturally, e.g the power icon)
- Include a grounding base line on icons where appropriate (never force it)
- Use one solid brand colour, never our gradient colours

Best practice standard icons

For the majority of uses across our touchpoints

Best practice functional icons

Optimised for use at smaller sizes (simplified and without the break in the stroke)

Icon colours

Standard icons can use the solid colours from either the core or expanded colour palettes.

Functional icons only use the solid colours from our core colour palette. Our colour gradients are never used for icons.

Always select colour combinations that are appropriate for your specific needs and audience.

While there's variety, the use of colour needs to be carefully controlled and managed. What's important is to have a consistent approach to using colour within any one piece of communication, whether it's print or digital.

The examples opposite show the only permitted colour combinations for our standard icons.

Our icons can also be used on top of our green and colour gradients, e.g. when they're used as a full bleed background in PowerPoint. Always make sure the colour combinations are accessible.

Note

Always refer to the colour accessibility page when selecting on-screen colour combinations. All icons should meet WCAG 2.2 AA standard for accessibility (our corporate standard).

Charcoal background	Core green background	Charcoal tint background	White background
Use of white, bright green (bright green 1 for on-screen), teal and orange	Use of white only	Use of core green, bright green (bright green 2 for on-screen), charcoal, blue, red, teal, purple and orange	Use of core green, bright green (bright green 2 for on-screen), charcoal, blue, red, teal, purple and orange

Using icons

We use icons for signposting, navigation or to simply break up longer content, making it more structured and digestible.

As a supporting asset, icons should always be used at smaller sizes.

Never use icons as large creative assets to illustrate ideas or concepts (this is the role of our photography and supergraphics).

We have two styles of icon to use across our touchpoints: standard icons for the majority of uses and functional icons optimised for small use, e.g. corporate reporting page navigation and some smaller digital applications etc.

Best practice examples

The benefits
Access to your communications
You can read communications on your computer or device at any time that's convenient for you.

Better for the environment
Less paper, printing and postage means a smaller carbon footprint.

£1.4tn
The investment the Climate Change Committee estimates will be needed between 2020 and 2050 to reach net zero by 2050

2.5m
People could be needed to work in the green economy

£253bn
Needed to improve home insulation and install low carbon sources of heat and hot water

40% of this investment will be directed to the power sector

400,000
People already work in the UK's green economy

24% of investment will be needed in land transport to electrify the UK's vehicle fleet

Have a question for us?
Please contact Group Internal Communications

Our reporting
We take an integrated approach to reporting that reflects the way we operate. This report contains disclosures aligned to the Task Force on Climate-related Financial Disclosures (TCFD) recommendations and recommended disclosures. TCFD-related disclosures can also be found in the Lloyds Banking Group 2022 Annual Report and Accounts. Supplementary information and disclosures are provided in the following documents, and referenced throughout this report.

See our 2021 performance reports at www.lloydsbankinggroup.com/investors.html
This report contains forward-looking statements relating to the Group's future financial condition, performance, results, strategic initiatives and objectives. For further details, please refer to page 72.

Our 2022 ESG Report

Our 2022 Annual Report and Accounts

Scottish Widows TCFD Report*

*Report to be published in March 2022 and will be available on the Scottish Widows website.

Our strategy

Helping Britain Prosper by supporting the transition to a low carbon economy

Creating icons

When creating icons always refer to the design principles, using them as a guide and check list.

All new icons should be created and artworked using the master Illustrator ai file and sized consistently on the artboard.

Where appropriate use existing icon shapes as a starting point for new icons. A similar approach across the icon set will mean a more connected and cohesive visual language, e.g. arrows, people, charts etc.

Always check new icons against the master set to make sure they feel optically the same size. Similar shapes should always be the same size, e.g. circles and circular arrows etc.

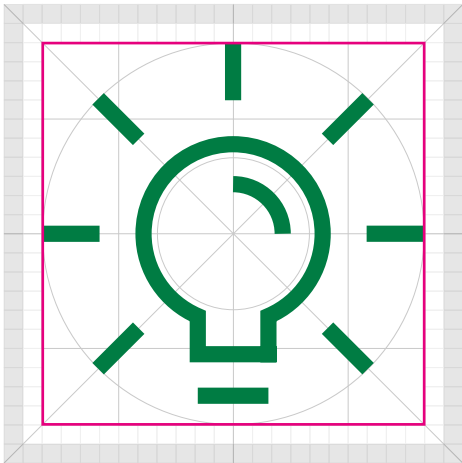

Currency symbols, numbers etc. should be redrawn in a geometric style with a stroke, so that the line weight can be consistently scaled.

Note

All new icons must be approved by the Brand Team: brand@lloydsbanking.com

Standard icons use a 10mm artboard and a 1pt stroke weight

- More detailed than our functional icons
- With a break in the stroke (in the outer shape or within the detail)
- Uses solid colours from either the core or expanded colour palettes

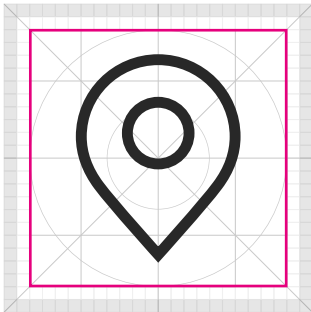

Our icons have been optically sized to feel consistent and always sit within this square area.

Exclusion zone

Functional icons use a 5mm artboard and a 0.5pt stroke weight

- More simplified than our standard icons
- Without a break in the stroke
- Uses solid colours from the core colour palette only

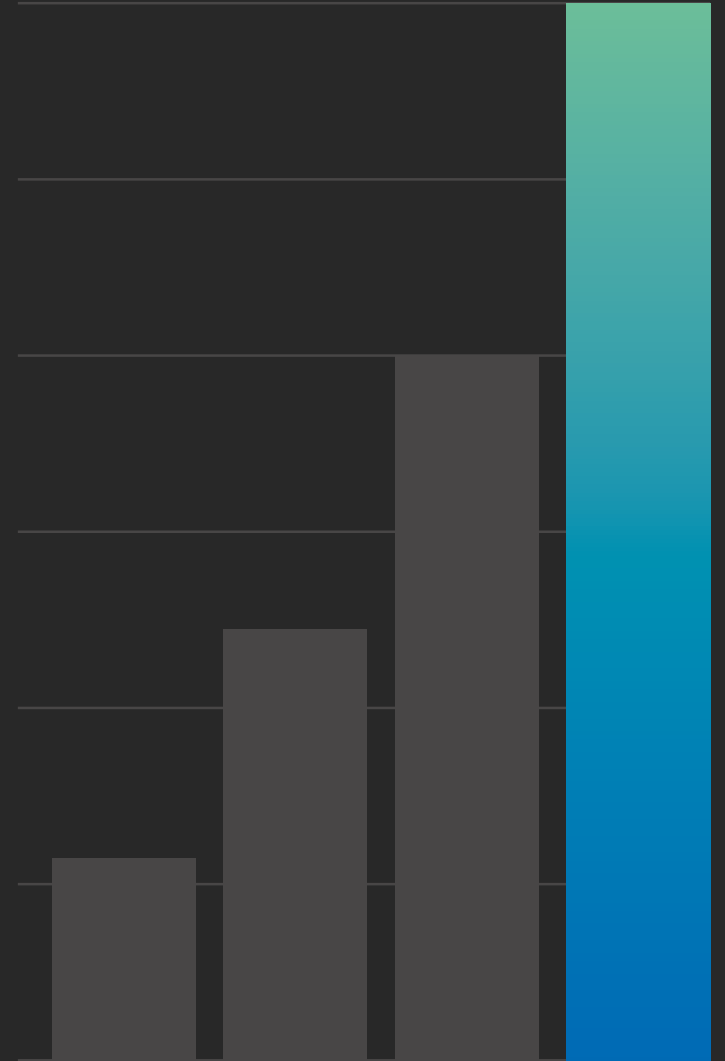

Relationship between standard and functional icons

The same standard and functional icon symbols should have a direct relationship in terms of their shape. Ideally they should be created at the same time, never in isolation.

Infographics

Clear and informative

Overview and principles

Our infographics bring content, data and information to life in a way that's clear, visually engaging and easy to understand for our wide variety of audiences.

Examples of infographics include: charts, graphs, tables and diagrams.

The following pages showcase a variety of best practice examples showing how we can present data using our brand assets.

Note

In certain circumstances the infographic designs may need to be revised, both to reach heightened accessibility targets and to manage the restrictions of some charting libraries and platforms.

Overarching infographic principles

Selection

- Always look for opportunities to introduce infographics, especially to break up content in more content heavy pages
- Carefully consider selecting the most appropriate style of infographic to bring your data to life. Always be led by the content

Styling

- Our infographics should always be carefully designed, with a refined look and feel
- Make sure line weights and use of colour are consistent across similar chart styles
- All our infographics should be 2D (never 3D) and avoid using drop shadows or any other special effects

Using colour

- Lead with our core colour palette, but also consider our expanded colour palette
- Our gradient colours can also be used, where appropriate, for larger hero infographics to lift the overall design
- Always make sure the choice of colour is controlled and consistent. Avoid using too many different colours together in one infographic or on one page

Accessibility

- Always consider legibility and contrast when selecting colour combinations. All infographic typography should meet WCAG 2.2 AA standard for accessibility (our corporate standard)
- Use a space and / or alternate darker and lighter colours to improve colour contrast between each data set. Avoid colours that might jar or vibrate, especially when placed next to each other
- Never use colour alone to differentiate information. Clearly labelling the data points and even including the data in a separate table can all help

Best practice examples

The examples opposite show a range of best practice infographics for Lloyds Banking Group.

Design principles

- Clean, simple and uncomplicated, e.g. avoid excessive clutter, 'special effects' and multiple keylines
- Bold, geometric and considered, complementing and fitting seamlessly with the overall design of the brand
- Lead with solid colours for smaller infographics, but also consider using our gradient colours, where appropriate, for larger hero infographics
- Charcoal is a useful colour, pairing well with our greens and working as a solid or tinted background to help contain or frame an infographic
- Make sure charcoal is balanced with the use of White across your communications

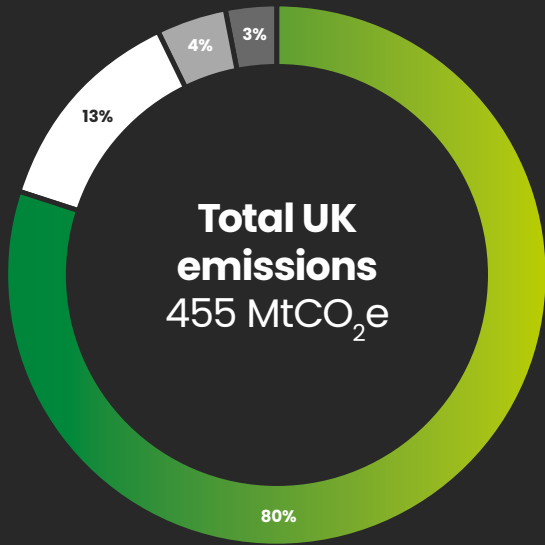

Note

Always refer to the colour accessibility page when selecting on-screen colour combinations.

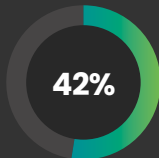

Best practice examples

Comparing UK and 2019 Bank financed emissions

UK sector emissions

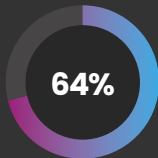

Energy use	Agriculture	Waste	Industry
Buildings 28%	Livestock 7%	Landfills 3%	Industry 2%
Transport 27%	Crops 3%	Other 1%
Industry 17%	Fossil 3%
Supply 8%

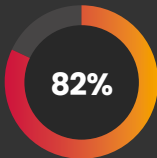

Priority 1

Explicque lam illaut volupis nam re volenis distios que pla denempo ritistiur.

Priority 2

Explicque lam illaut volupis nam re volenis distios que pla denempo ritistiur.

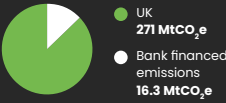

Priority 3

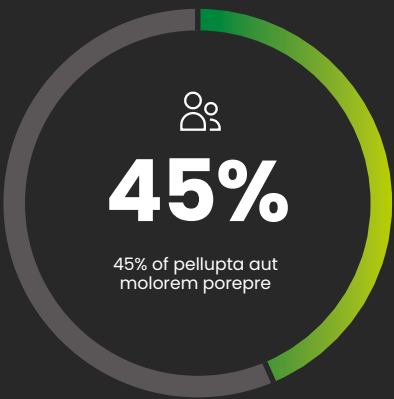

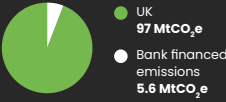

Explicque lam illaut volupis nam re volenis distios que pla denempo ritistiur.

UK & Bank comparisons

Business

Homes

Best practice examples

The examples opposite show a range of best practice infographics for Lloyds Banking Group.

Design principles

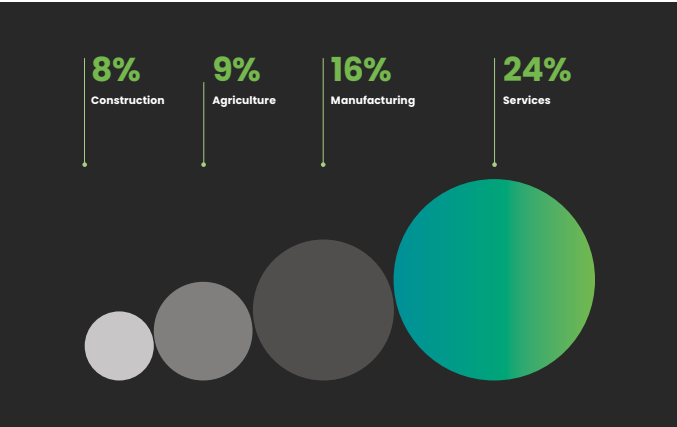

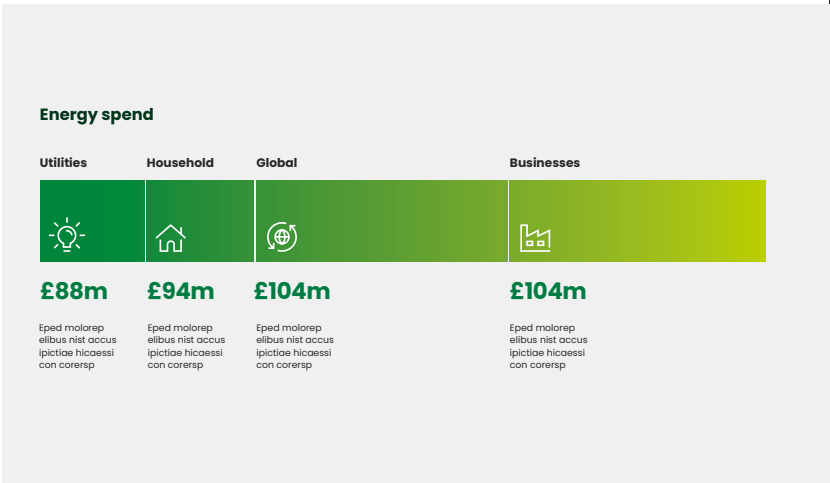

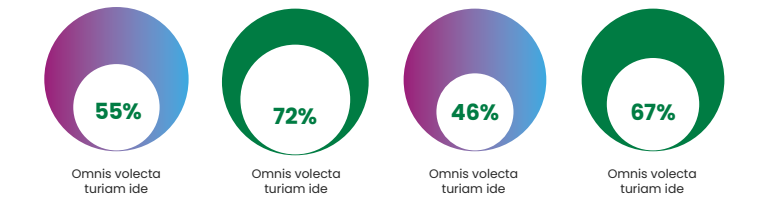

- Clean, simple and uncomplicated, e.g. avoid excessive clutter, 'special effects' and multiple keylines
- Bold, geometric and considered, complementing and fitting seamlessly with the overall design of the brand
- Lead with solid colours for smaller infographics, but also consider using our gradient colours, where appropriate, for larger hero infographics
- Charcoal is a useful colour, pairing well with our greens and working as a solid or tinted background to help contain or frame an infographic
- Make sure charcoal is balanced with the use of White across your communications

Note

Always refer to the colour accessibility page when selecting on-screen colour combinations.

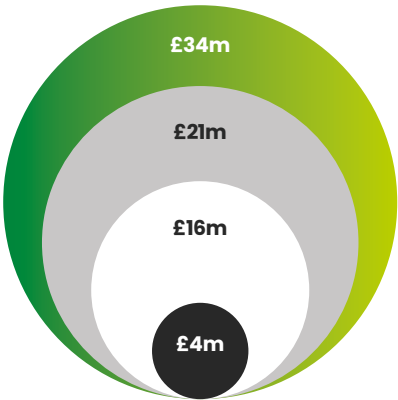

Best practice examples

Quaspis re es experem eos nesciae ipsuntiis illigni
Perumquaepe qui tem alitatusae ea

Growth forecast

- Optaspis ressi
- Moluptatus
- Delit qui dolupie
- Em fugitate

Best practice examples

The examples opposite show a range of best practice infographics for Lloyds Banking Group.

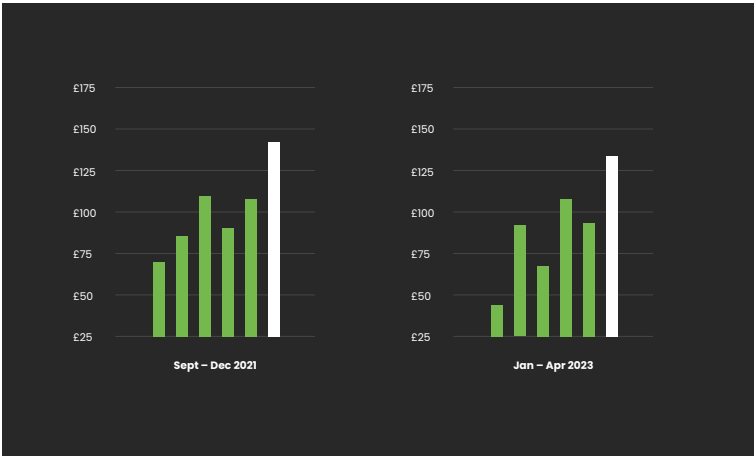

Design principles

- Clean, simple and uncomplicated, e.g. avoid excessive clutter, 'special effects' and multiple keylines
- Bold, geometric and considered, complementing and fitting seamlessly with the overall design of the brand
- Lead with solid colours for smaller infographics, but also consider using our gradient colours, where appropriate, for larger hero infographics
- Charcoal is a useful colour, pairing well with our greens and working as a solid or tinted background to help contain or frame an infographic
- Make sure charcoal is balanced with the use of White across your communications

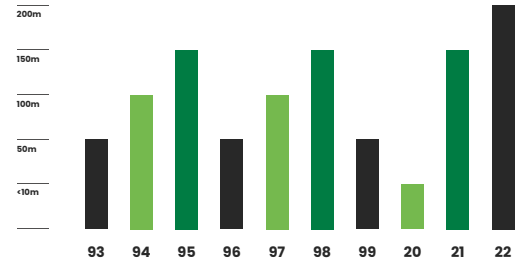

Note

Always refer to the colour accessibility page when selecting on-screen colour combinations.

Best practice examples

Investment in smart homes

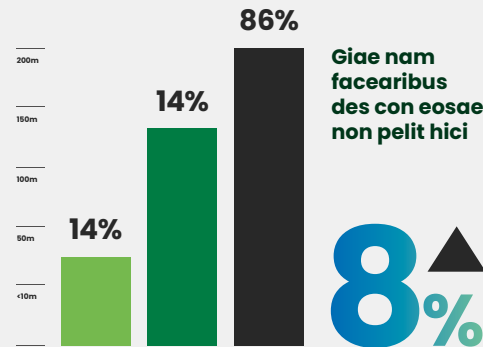

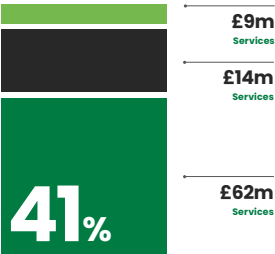

Main heading
Subheading

£3.4bn

Main heading
Subheading

£2.6bn

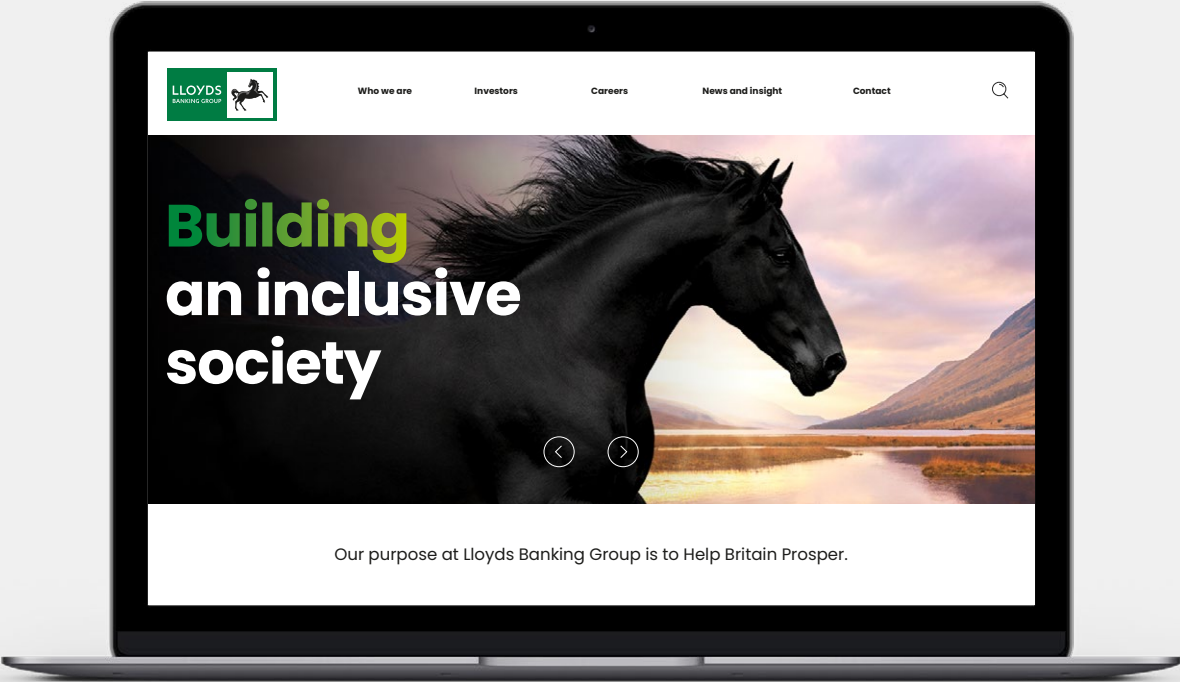

Section 04

Best practice examples

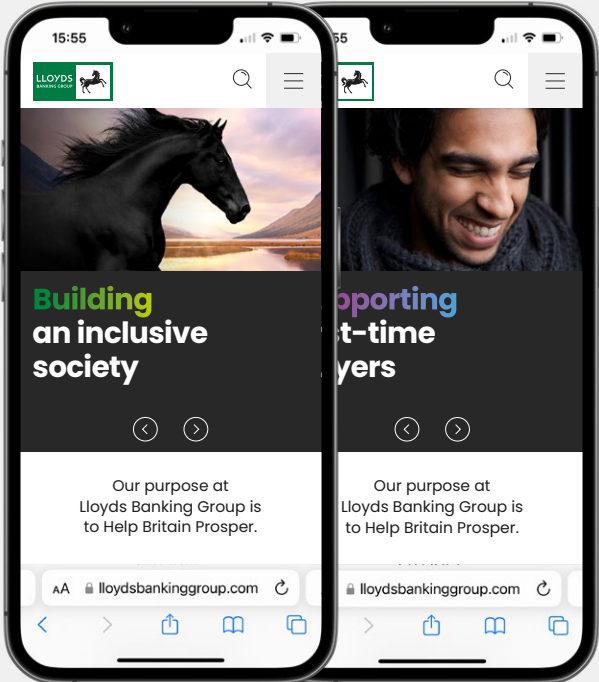

Investors, shareholders and analysts

.com website

Homepage – primary banner

Mobile – primary and secondary banners

Investors, shareholders and analysts

Corporate reports

Annual report and accounts – sample pages

5.6% Return on Equity

£16bn Group Total Assets

£5bn Group Total Liabilities

Group Chief Executive's review

We have a great opportunity to build a really purpose-driven bank, with long-term sustainability, that defines the future of what great financial services look like for our customers, colleagues and shareholders.

Our year of progress

Q1 Q2

Q3 Q4

Q1 Q2

Q3 Q4

£253bn Group Total Assets

24% Return on Equity

85% Net operating assets

24%

Strategy

Turning profit into positive impact

Turning profit into positive impact

Climate report – sample pages

Investing in a net zero future

Helping Britain Prosper by supporting the transition to a low carbon economy

£1.4tn 2.5m £253bn

40% 400,000 24%

Metrics and targets

Financed emissions baseline and progress

455 MtCO₂e

Government, media, journalists and opinion formers

OOH advertising

48 sheet

Supporting first-time buyers

We've supported social housing providers with more than £12.5 billion in financing since 2018.

Helping Britain Prosper

Through the tough times

We know the cost of living won't be easy for many people. So whether it's in app, over the phone or in person, we're here to make sure people facing financial difficulty get the help and advice they need.

Helping Britain Prosper

6 sheet

100,000 new homes

We've helped UK housing associations build over 100,000 homes in the last three years.

Helping Britain Prosper

Underground takeover – escalator

Behind British business

Investing in a net zero future

Turning uncertainty into possibility

Helping Britain Prosper

Underground takeover – walkways

Helping those who need it

We've supported social housing providers with more than £12.5 billion in financing since 2018.

Helping Britain Prosper

Helping Britain prosper

Government, media, journalists and opinion formers

Press advertising

Half page

Our Business Hub empowers British businesses with practical tips, advice and resources to build resilience and support growth.

Helping Britain Prosper

Behind British business

Driving Britain forwards

We've proactively got in touch with 750,000 business customers to see how we can support them through recent challenges.

Helping Britain Prosper

Helping those who need it

We've supported social housing providers with more than £12.5 billion in financing since 2018.

Helping Britain Prosper

Helping more people have a place to call home

We've supported social housing providers with more than £12.5 billion in financing since 2018.

Helping Britain Prosper

Full page

Driving Britain forwards

We've helped UK housing associations build over 100,000 homes in the last three years.

Helping Britain Prosper

Government, media, journalists and opinion formers

Digital display

Wide skyscraper

£10 million of green mortgage lending

Since 2021, we've helped customers with £10 million in green mortgages to help build a more sustainable future.

Helping Britain Prosper

Driving
Britain
forwards

We've proactively got in touch with 750,000 business customers to see how we can support them through recent challenges.

Helping Britain Prosper

Helping those who need it

We've reached out to 220,000 mortgage customers to provide support around reducing their monthly mortgage payments.

Helping Britain Prosper

MPU

Driving
Britain
forwards

Investing in a net zero future

Behind British business

Banner

Investing in a net zero future

We believe finance can be a force for good. That's why we're working with customers, the government and the market to achieve net zero financed emissions by 2050 or sooner.

Helping Britain Prosper

Through the tough times

We know the cost of living won't be easy for many people. So whether it's in app, over the phone or in person, we're here to make sure people facing financial difficulty get the help and advice they need.

Helping Britain Prosper

Government, media, journalists and opinion formers

Social

Static post image

Static post images

Multiple frame post

Multiple frame post

Our people

Values collateral

Internal poster

People-first
We put people first to go further for customers

We listen and care for people as individuals.
We go the extra mile to help customers, colleagues and communities feel more supported, in control and confident about their future.

The opposite is:
Putting process over people.

Bold
We're bold and take action

We innovate and do things differently to better serve our customers and grow with purpose.
We challenge things that aren't right, and take action to change them.

The opposite is:
Letting how we've done things before slow us down.

Inclusive
We're inclusive to value everyone

We learn about and embrace our differences, and seek out diverse perspectives.
We shape what we do and what we offer around the different needs and circumstances of our customers, colleagues and communities.

The opposite is:
Thinking our perspectives are the only ones that count.

Sustainable
We champion sustainability to care for our planet

We take responsibility for the impact of our actions on nature and Britain's transition to net zero.
We see the bigger picture and think through the consequences of our decisions.

The opposite is:
Prioritising short term returns without considering long term impacts.

Trust
We trust each other to achieve more together

We give each other the space and support to take things on and see them through.
We are honest with each other and explain our decisions.

The opposite is:
Getting involved when we're not needed.

Totems and banners

Bold

We're bold and take action

People-first

We put people first to go further for customers

Cards

Sustainable
We champion sustainability to care for our planet

People-first
We put people first to go further for customers

Trust
We trust each other to achieve more together

Bold
We're bold and take action

Our people

PowerPoint

Sample pages

Our people

Notional examples of how the brand comes to life in environments

Head office reception

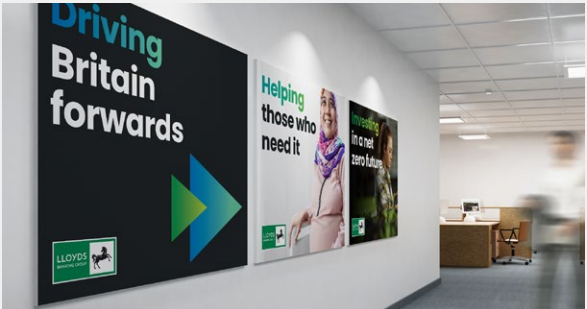

Large internal walls

Wayfinding and signage

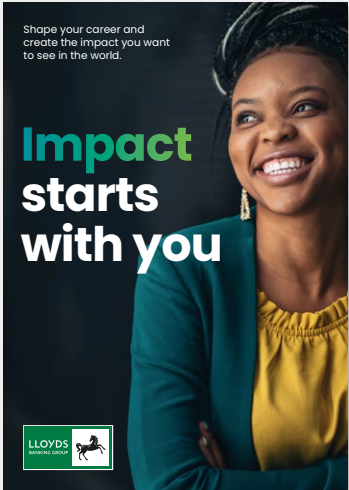

Walkways and social zones

Our people

Posters and totems

Internal posters

LED totems

Our people

Email

Desktop email

2023 Quarter 3 Results

Our Quarter 3 Results

This morning, we're announcing our financial results for the third quarter of 2022.

You can read about our performance so far this year in a message from William Chalmers and see the key numbers at a glance on Interchange. You can also watch a video from our chief economist Angus Armstrong reflecting on the current economic backdrop.

Please contact Group Internal Communications if you have any issues accessing this message on interchange or if you would like to receive it in a different format.

2022 Q3 results highlights

Robust financial results with strong observed asset quality and continued business momentum while significant investment is underway, supporting growth strategy.

Statutory profit after tax	Net income	Operating costs
£4.0bn	£13.0bn	£6.4bn
Net impairment charge	Return on tangible equity	CET1 ratio
£1.0bn	12.9bn	15.0%

Have a question for us?
Please contact Group Internal Communications

A message from Charlie

Have you say on our values

Hello everyone,

Before I begin, I want to recognise the tremendously sad and difficult situation unfolding in Ukraine. My thoughts are with all of those affected. I know you will be thoughtful of the impact this situation may be having on our people and our customers and continue to be there for each other. Remember support is available via our Employee Assistance Programme should you need it.

I know our recent communications haven't come at an easy time, but I hope you will have had time to read and digest our full year update and you feel as ready as I do for our next chapter together as we launch our new strategy. A hugely important part of how we achieve our ambition is through our purpose and culture. Our shared values are the articulation of our culture and help guide us around how we do things, so it's crucial that these reflect the organisation we are today and want to become tomorrow.

Many of you have said that you want a simpler approach for our values. You've helped to identify four key themes you believe we should focus on – trust, people first, inclusivity and innovative thinking. It's been really encouraging to see such engagement in this, and I'd like to thank everyone who has contributed so far.

It's important that as many of you as possible take part in the next step, which is sharing your views on how and when we should focus on a newly expressed set of shared values. I'd encourage you all to take just a few minutes to look at the options and share your thoughts.

It would be really helpful to have your views by 5pm Friday 4 March. Your input will be extremely valuable and much appreciated, and I'll update you on the outcome as soon as I can.

It's also important that we keep talking on the refreshed strategy and what it means for our strategic future as a business. So, I'll be hosting a Group-wide virtual town hall on 24 March (12pm – 1pm) to answer any questions you have. Please register your interest and I look forward to speaking to you then.

Best wishes,
Charlie

Have a question for us?
Please contact Charlie Mann Communications

Senior leadership update

Announcing leadership change

Hello everyone,

I wanted to let you know that Antonio Lorenzo, CEO of Scottish Widows and Insurance, Pensions & Investments (IP&I), has decided to retire.

I'm grateful for all the support Antonio has given me since I joined the Group. Antonio came to me some time ago to let me know he intended to retire, but very kindly agreed to stay and work with me to reshape the organisation, giving me time to search for a successor and ensure we have a smooth transition period. More on that below.

Iqui aut eudamhili sum et rae [prosperum]

Adtempus ea qui suscipit tempore accus quam volentis ut utilitatis et, as dolo consecto dolore preperit, lore nientandis volatote sed mossium quondamiam tout est vito pro. Net dolos aut porum eturor onsequat sra eum.

Arume labor andi que eum es vello volutatem

Velique por as pe po nus volupit, oceo exerceat rectatus dicitam dolorem etur, quasper utpatit derapsit out ame elatentum est volatortum quonemhili, sitatur, subita expedit odigit, quis outit, exeres volupitatur aspsitot rae.

Iqui aut eudamhili sum et rae [prosperum]

Adtempus ea qui suscipit tempore accus quam volentis ut utilitatis et, as dolo consecto dolore preperit, lore nientandis volatote sed mossium quondamiam tout est vito pro. Net dolos aut porum eturor onsequat sra eum.

2023 Quarter 3 Results

Our Quarter 3 Results

This morning, we're announcing our financial results for the third quarter of 2022.

You can read about our performance so far this year in a message from William Chalmers and see the key numbers at a glance on Interchange. You can also watch a video from our chief economist Angus Armstrong reflecting on the current economic backdrop.

Please contact Group Internal Communications if you have any issues accessing this message on interchange or if you would like to receive it in a different format.

2022 Q3 results highlights

Robust financial results with strong observed asset quality and continued business momentum while significant investment is underway, supporting growth strategy.

Statutory profit after tax	Net income	Operating costs
£4.0bn	£13.0bn	£6.4bn
Net impairment charge	Return on tangible equity	CET1 ratio
£1.0bn	12.9bn	15.0%

Have a question for us?
Please contact Group Internal Communications

The impact of women in tech roles

Why women are so important to tech

Hello everyone,

Iqui aut eudamhili sum et rae [prosperum] fugiasp ellandae cusam qui ute volor aut es di corum alio plis estotates et eumque para volo.

Arume labor andi que eum es vello volutatem referentem que dolupta tectem pietur, alitum que ad qui nobit hiliquise. Perumetis incitae est tant id eotibus andon endandandant labor aliquam dandent, si bea conseqae. Onim amtempo rehendi dals mos aboque dantit fugs Labore, od molum volupitum qui out dolutation ewari i modat.

Only 24% of tech roles are filled by women*

Adtempus ea qui suscipit tempore accus quam volentis ut utilitatis et, as dolo consecto dolore preperit, lore nientandis volatote sed mossium quondamiam tout.

and 77% of tech leaders are men*

Velique por as pe po nus volupit, oceo exerceat rectatus dicitam dolorem etur, quasper utpatit derapsit out ame elatentum est volatortum quonemhili, sitatur.

Mobile email

2023 Quarter 3 Results

Our Quarter 3 Results

This morning, we're announcing our financial results for the third quarter of 2022.

You can read about our performance so far this year in a message from William Chalmers and see the key numbers at a glance on Interchange. You can also watch a video from our chief economist Angus Armstrong reflecting on the current economic backdrop.

Statutory profit after tax	Net income
£4.0bn	£13.0bn
Net impairment charge	Return on tangible equity
£1.0bn	12.9bn

Our people

Information documents and PDFs

LLOYDS BANKING GROUP
PENSIONS TRUSTEES LIMITED

Easier

pension access

A guide to the benefits of moving your pension communications to email.

LLOYDS BANKING GROUP

Trustee of your pension scheme, we're always reviewing how we can make member communications easier to access and reduce our carbon footprint.

If you're already registered for email, we'll send pension communications to you by email. If not, we can help you sign up through the post.

Switching to email means that we can reduce the number of printed communications we send you. This ensures that we can reach you with messages, even if you move house. You don't need to take any action but if you'd prefer to receive paper communications, we can send you a copy of emails. Details of how to do this are on the opposite.

Pension leaflet

Better for the environment
Less paper, printing and postage means a smaller carbon footprint.

Your information
We won't send any personal or confidential information by email, but we will tell you how you can access it securely online on the Your Pension site. We won't share your email address with other parties for marketing purposes, however, we may contact you by email to get your views on how we can improve the Scheme and the services that our administrator provides.

What happens next

The email address we hold for you is: name.surname@lloydsbankinggroup.com
We'll start to send communications to this address from now on unless you tell us otherwise.

If you're a member of more than one of our schemes, you'll receive this communication for each scheme you've recorded an email address for.

As you've recorded a Lloyds Banking Group email address, we recommend you change this to a personal email address.

To receive email communications to a different email address or to continue receiving printed communications:

1.

Sign in to Your Pension at epa.towerswatson.com/accounts/lbg with your user ID

2.

Enter the password you chose when you registered, but if you can't remember this you can easily reset it from the login page on the site.

3.

Go to Your Details and select Pension Mailing Preference to update your details.

Or, you can write to the Scheme administrator, WTW at Lloyds Pension Administration, PO Box 545, Redhill, Surrey RH1 1YX

'Your best' activation pack PDF

Your Best

Activation
Pack

Understanding your purpose

Print friendly

LLOYDS BANKING GROUP

What is this pack?

An easy-to-use pack to support our approach to Performance Management – Your Best.

- Content, tips and tricks drawn from the worlds of psychology and behavioural science to help embed learning and change behaviour.
- The activities are designed to be used in any environment with minimal prep time. All activities are printable and will only require pens and paper to deliver.
- This is an opportunity for you as a manager to develop your team and embed key skills.
- Many of the tools included can be used in everyday sessions or one-to-ones with your colleagues.

What does it include?

Topic brief – to help you plan on the content being required.

Conversation starter – prompt questions to help you have an insightful and honest conversation with your team.

Engager – quick engaging activities to help you embed the message.

Challenges – on-the-go tasks to get people playing behaviour change practice.

Helpful reminders – suggestions to make the most of the activities. Evidence to show that change is possible and to help you overcome any barriers to change.

The activities in this pack are based on the 10-10-10 rule.

Helpful reminders – suggestions to make the most of the activities. Evidence to show that change is possible and to help you overcome any barriers to change.

Where do I start?

Find a time to explore this Your Best content with a colleague or with a whole team.

Work through each activity in order, or pick and choose depending on suitability and time available.

Here's what's included

Work through each section, or select one to go straight to it.

Facilitation tips
Page 4

Topic brief
Page 5

Further sources
Page 17

Conversation Starters
Page 7

Challenge Cards
Page 12

Engager
Page 9

Tricky situations
Page 16

Choose this if...

You want to learn more about your team and get the best out of their goals, objectives and day-to-day work.

Estimated time: 10-15 minutes

Choose this if...

You want to learn more about your team and get the best out of their goals, objectives and day-to-day work.

Estimated time: 10-15 minutes

Choose this if...

You want to learn more about your team and get the best out of their goals, objectives and day-to-day work.

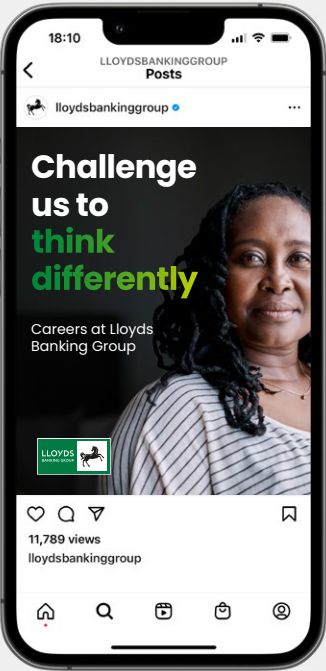

Estimated time: 10-15 minutes

88

Our people

Recruitment comms

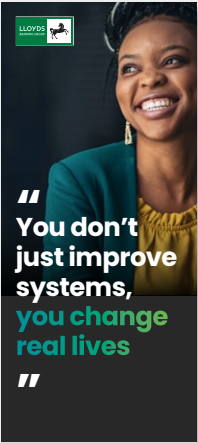

Social – static post image

Social – multiple frame post

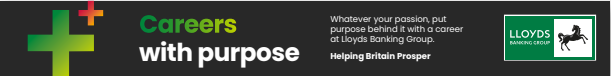

Pop-up event banners

Press ads – half page

Digital display

Event specific

Labour conference event – side and long panels

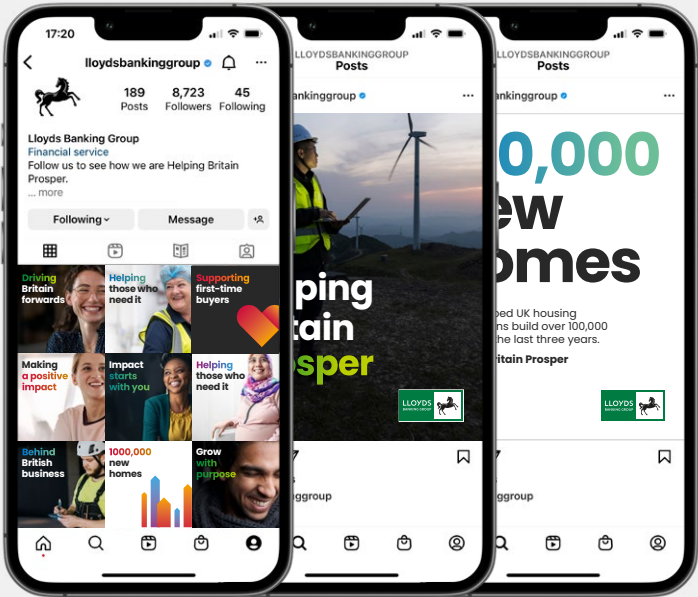

Colleague facing internal event, e.g. results announcement, AGM

Social specific

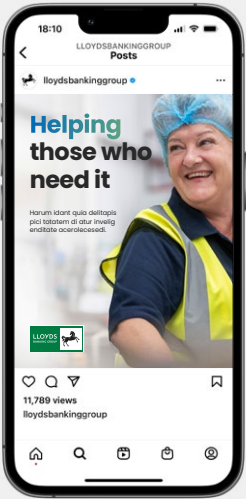

Overview and static post images

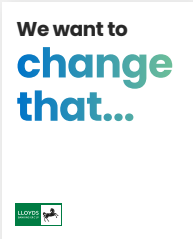

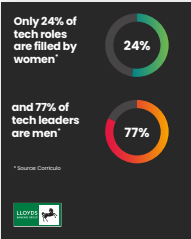

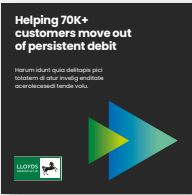

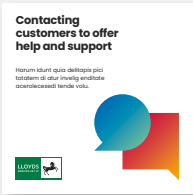

Static post images

Multiple frame post

Multiple frame posts

Section 05

Contact us

Any questions?

If you have any questions on the visual or verbal application of the Lloyds Banking Group brand, please contact $ Brand or brand@lloydsbanking.com

Resources available for internal colleagues

Brand toolkit

<https://lloydsbanking.sharepoint.com/sites/CCOHub/Brand%20Toolkit/default.aspx>

LBG brand asset hub

To download icons, images and supergraphics:

<https://lloydsbanking.sharepoint.com/sites/branding/Shared%20Documents/Forms/AllItems.aspx?id=%2Fsites%2Fbranding%2FShared%20Documents%2FLBG%20CORPORATE%20BRAND&p=true&ct=1674819499120&or=Teams%2DHL&ga=1>

Customer communication handbook

<https://lloydsbanking.sharepoint.com/sites/customercommshandbook/SitePages/Customer-Communications-Handbook.aspx>

Other contacts that may be useful

Brand strategy, design or protection

For any queries for the Brand strategy, design or protection teams please contact: $ Brand or brand@lloydsbanking.com

